Relief Machine Pulling Managua Out Of Wreckage

Relief Agencies Start Gigantic Task Of Aiding Hundreds Of Sufferers

DOCTORS-NURSES ARE BADLY NEEDED

No Definite Death Toll Established Yet—May Take Days To Complete Check

By E. S. MOORE
International News Service Special Correspondent

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 3.—An organized relief machine under American auspices today assumed the gigantic task of dragging Managua out of the wreckage that followed in the wake of Tuesday's earthquake.

The expected arrival at Corinto of the U. S. S. Rochester, the hospital ship relief and additional physicians and nurses as well as food and medical supplies, assured the weary relief workers in the ravaged Nicaraguan capital that their efforts to ward off hunger and epidemic will prove successful.

Medical Supplies Arrive

With a dozen planes from the U. S. S. Lexington already piling in regular cargoes of medical provisions and food, and evacuating the badly injured on return trips, the medical staffs working tirelessly in the hot sun here found increasing assurance that an outbreak of pestilence would be prevented. Hundreds of the injured were shipped to Corinto an dother points by train following the reopening of the line between here and that port.

The death toll remained as indefinite as ever, with no attempts made to identify the dead. Col. Frederick L. Bradman, commanding the marines, declared that as many as 2,000 persons may have been killed

Looks Like The Man Says Cashier P. M. Cox Of Picture Of Holt

"That looks like the man who held me up and then locked me in the vault," said Philip H. Cox, cashier of the Volant National bank, today, after looking at a picture of Harold Holt, now on his way from Detroit to New Castle to stand trial of the Volant bank.

"I do not want to be unfair," said Mr. Cox, "and make a positive identification from a picture. Oftentimes pictures are not true likenesses of a person. But his general facial appearance, his prominent nose, his peculiarly shaped jaw, all of these things convince me that the picture is that of the man who stuck me up."

Mr. Cox's identification of Holt was buttressed later by Miss Mabel Simpson, bookkeeper in the bank, who saw the holdup men last August when the bank was robbed of $2500. "That has every appearance of being the man," said Miss Simpson. "He was the larger of the two, had a cap on, and had several days' growth of beard upon his face. I only got a fleeting glance of him, but I shall always remember that peculiarly shaped jaw and his nose and eyes. I would say that the picture was that of the man who stuck up the bank."

With the picture of Holt, a picture of Mrs. Vera Phillips was shown Mr. Cox and Miss Simpson. Neither could identify the woman as they had not seen her. Miss Simpson remembered her as Vera Palmer who lived out on the Perry highway, but who moved away some eight years ago when she was married.

"I did not know her very well," said Miss Simpson, "but I saw her many times. This picture shows her dressed entirely differently than she was when she was here. I know nothing of the man she married, and very little of her when she lived here."

Miss Betty Gilson, telephone operator in Volant, who saw the bandit car when it pulled alongside of the bank, last August, said she also believed Holt was one of the men who got out of the car and went into the bank. "I only got a side view of him as he was in the automobile," said Miss Gilson, "but that looks like him."

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 3.—Knute Rockne was back home today in Sunnymede, a silent host to his legion of friends.

In the attractively appointed living room of the stucco residence on Wayne street they visited Rock once again, still wondering why the referee had backed him up beyond the final goal line.

Intimates who had sat in the same room with him in mellow times when—in reveries—the four horsemen and others of his handiwork had streaked across imaginary yard lines on the carpet, paid their silent tribute, bowed their head at the master's portrait on the wall and moved on into the chilly day.

Funeral Saturday.

Tomorrow afternoon they'll rally behind Rock once again—marching shoulder to shoulder—when the trail leads to Highland cemetery after requiem services are held at 3 o'clock in the ancient church of the Sacred Heart on the campus.

LAWRENCE COUNTY OFFICERS IN DETROIT TO GET ROBBER PAIR

Expect To Bring Mrs. Vera Phillips And Harold Holt Back Here

BOTH AGREE TO RETURN AT ONCE

Officials To Start Back Today—Woman's Lover Coming Too

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 3.—Mrs. Vera Phillips, 28-year-old alleged bandit "Queen" and Harold Holt, 19-year-old admitted member of her clique, were to leave Detroit at 3 p. m., today in custody of Pennsylvania police to be returned to Volant in that state to face bank robbery charges. Both waived extradition.

With Mrs. Phillips will go Clyde Hahn, who tried unsuccessfully today to obtain a license to marry the comely blonde widow.

Will Follow Her

"I'll follow you to Pennsylvania and we'll be married there," Hahn, with tears in his eyes, told his sweetheart through cell bars. Michigan's marriage laws, requiring five days to elapse between application and the issuance of marriage licenses, balked Hahn's plans to marry his bandit-sweetheart here.

Following the arrest of her brother, Kenneth Palmer, in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Vera Phillips, according to police, admitted planning the bank robbery.

"I'm willing to go back now and face the consequences," the woman said. "And I'm happy because I know that there will be someone waiting for me when I get out."

Turning to Hahn, Mrs. Phillips sobbed: "Don't let them put me away for too long a time."

(Special To The News)

DETROIT, April 3.—Mrs. Vera Phillips, 28, pretty slim widow named as the "brains" of the First National bank holdup at Volant, Pa., last August, is behind prison bars here today facing a long imprisonment. But Mrs. Phillips is happy, she is going to be married.

Last night in the women's detention home, Clyde Hahn, 28, of Detroit, caressed the girl bandit and told her that never would they be separated until they were married. After he left Mrs. Phillips gazed through the bars and said: "the police say I have "guilty" knowledge of the crime, I have. But I couldn't turn in my own brother. I'll take what they give me and try and be game. It is just for Clyde I am sorry. He has proved that he loves me. Now I am happy"

If the Pymatuning dam were in existence at the present time, the water which is spreading out over the countryside as a result of the consistent rains of the past week or more, would be back in the Pymatuning area, and would be let out during the hot summer weather, so that the Shenango river would maintain a higher stage during the summer. At the present time the Shenango is about 9 feet, a stage that hasn't been approached for more than a year.

Rain of this morning was a surprise to many weather forecasters here. Last night a brilliant full moon shone in the skies and a fine day was anticipated. However, the skies clouded over during the night and again this morning it was raining.

Missing Girl Is Plunged To Death In New York City

Miss Mabel D. Crosson, Narberth, Pa., Killed As She Falls Nine Stories

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—A quietly conducted search for Miss Mabel D. Crosson, beautiful 24-year old prominent society girl of Narberth, Pa., ended today with the receipt of news from New York that the missing girl had plunged nine stories to her death from the Hotel Algonquin in New York City.

Miss Crosson, who was the daughter of William J. Crosson, a captain in the U. S. Marine Corps, stationed here, either fell or leaped to her death. She left home on Monday and was reported recuperating from a nervous breakdown.

Served As Secretary.

The girl was formerly secretary to Professor Francis H. Bohlen of the University of Pennsylvania, who sought the Republican nomination for U. S. senator in the primary of last May. Shortly before she was killed the girl telephoned him. Prof. Bohlen said. He tried to persuade her to return home, but failed. Miss Crosson had been employed in his office for the past eight years, Bohlen said.

Considerably mystery was added to the tragedy today when New York detectives revealed a wedding ring was found in the girl's handbag. Bohlen said that he does not know of her having been married. Besides the ring there were $114 in cash and an automobile license card in the bag which made identification possible.

Members of the grief-stricken family arranged today to have the body shipped here for burial.

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, April 3.—Disputing bitterly and deadlocked, the jury trying Leo V. Brothers for the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, reporter, today had not reached a verdict.

Since the twelve jurors began their deliberations at 2:25 p. m. yesterday, they have striven vainly to decide whether the nattily attired St. Louis gunman should have life, death, liberty or imprisonment.

It became evident with every passing hour that the jury would disagree, and that there would still remain unanswered that oft-repeated question:

"Who killed Lingle?"

Heavy Damage In Olean, New York From Snowstorm

Streets Of City Littered With Broken Trees Result Of Four-Inch Snow

(International News Service)

OLEAN, N. Y., April 3.—Streets in this section today were littered with more than 300 fallen trees and numerous broken limbs as a result of the severe April snowstorm which wrought several thousand dollars damage and interrupted telephone and telegraph communication here.

Telephone and wire service from Olean had been considerably repaired today, companies reported, although a number of nearby communities were still without the cable service today as a result of the storm's havoc.

The entire section of western New York and northwestern Pennsylvania was buried beneath a four-inch blanket of snow. Heavy cables sagged to the ground under the weight of the heavy, moist flakes.

Ministers Will Lunch At School

Accepting an invitation extended by B. K. Thacker, principal of George Washington Junior High School, the New Castle Ministerial Association will hold their bi-weekly meeting in the school building Monday, April 6, at 10 a. m.

The paper of the day will be presented by Rev. D. D. Sleppy, who will discuss "Education and Religion". The ministers will be taken on a tour of inspection of the building and will have lunch in the cafeteria of the school.

BRIGHT AND CLEAR IS EASTER FORECAST

When Sunday morning—Easter Sunday—dawns, there will probably be "fair skies" overhead, the weather man, somewhat hesitantly, predicted today.

"Although uncertain conditions prevail out west, it seems likely that Easter Day will be bright and clear in the state of Pennsylvania," the forecaster reported.

But it will not be warm.

"The temperature will not go up to any large extent", the forecaster said, "in fact, we may have some snow Saturday."

But the rain, scheduled for today and tonight, should vanish before Saturday evening.

Now a parachute wasn't invented just for some nut to go up and jump out for fun. Your Lindbergh, your Hawkes, Doolittle, Williams, Ingalls, all wear 'em, that's why most of 'em are still here.

Now I have never understood why commercial planes didn't use them. Now the wing came off Rockne's plane mighty high up to light as far away from the plane as it did. I always had a doubt if I would have the nerve to jump, but there would have been none about Rockne.

He would have stepped out of there, pulled that ring, and told a funny joke on the way down. It at least gives you a chance that they haven't got otherwise. The army and navy demand it, and they can't be wrong all the time.

At least have 'em there, and leave it optional with the passengers.

Kane Is Buried Under Snowfall

April Snowstorm And Blizzard Rages With Fury At Kane, Pa., Today

COMMUNICATION BADLY CRIPPLED

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., April 3.—Shortly after communication in this storm torn region was restored today, the devastating April snowstorm blizzard, which has already taken a toll of one victim and wrought several thousand dollars damage, broke forth again with new fury.

Telephone companies reported most of their lines were in service today, but expressed further fears because of the new storm. The heavy wet snow which fell continually throughout yesterday, snapped scores of telephone wire sections here and in Olean. The latter city was entirely cut off from communication with the outside world for a period during the storm.

Lineman Killed

Scott Dennis, 28, of Eldred, Pa., a lineman for the Bradford Electric company, was electrocuted near Eldred when he attempted to repair a cable during the height of the storm. Fellow workers found his body hanging limply across the heavy line.

Four of the 40 telephone circuits between Kane and Bradford were in service today and unless otherwise seriously hampered by the new storm, linemen were confident that the others would soon be repaired.

Wires from Olean to Wellsville in Allegheny county, New York, and to Bradford, were down for several hours last night as was the circuit to Buffalo, N. Y.

Highway plows were battling the huge drifts today in an effort to clear the roads and prevent blocking of transportation.

P. R. R. Station Lootings Solved

Ohio Reformatory Inmates Confess Jobs, E. & A. Police Say

Admit Three Robberies, But Are Linked By Officers To More

Solving at least three mysterious year-end station robberies on the Erie & Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad, two men now serving reformatory terms at Mansfield, O., had frankly confessed the burglaries today, and because of the admissions authorities here said they had every reason to believe the solution had been found to probably four or five other division jobs.

Captain of Police W. E. Gastinger announced the confessions at divisional offices this morning. He said the admissions marked the end of investigations launched after the first depot had been entered some time ago.

The men reported by Captain Gastinger as having confessed the robbery jobs are Leonard Pangborn, Cortland, O., and Austin Gengler of near Cortland.

A third man, Steve Petrosky, questioned with the trio because he was with the other two men when New York Central railroad police caught them while commiting a station job at an Ohio town not long ago, was absolved of any blame by Pangborn and Gengler.

Petrosky claimed that he had joined the two shortly before they were apprehended, for which job they are now serving indeterminate sentences in the Ohio state reformatory.

Captain Gastinger today produced a high power combination rifle-shotgun which the men confessed they had carried on the trips, uncovered yesterday in a haymow at Pangborn's home not far from Cortland.

Both the Transfer and Jamestown, Pa., station robberies were admitted by the two, as well as the one at Bristolville on the night of January 26. The Transfer job occurred last December 31, while the Jamestown depot was entered and robbed February 8.

An imprint left by a pair of tennis shoes worn by one of the men gave Pennsylvania police their first clue to the robbery. Checked down, the same imprint was found in the vicinity of the New York Central station, which they had attempted to rob.

Captain Gastinger said the confessions were obtained by Lieutenant W. C. Ebert, Youngstown, and Sergeant O. W. Guesman, Warren, both police officers of the division force. They attributed their success to E. D. Fuller, who heads the reformatory's bureau of identification, and who was with them when authorities grilled them.

Authorities declared there is no question but what the two committed the station robberies in the local district during the past three months. Various depots have been broken into and ransacked.

Police here explained that Pangborn told them where his gun was hidden, and told them they could find it somewhere in the haymow at his home. Captain Gastinger, accompanied by local patrolmen, went to Cortland yesterday and located it.

The men will remain in the Mansfield reformatory, it was said. What action railroad authorities will take is not known.

City Policemen To Receive Fees

Council Passes Resolution Releasing About $350 To Police

Council today accepted a resolution presented by Councilmen Louis Genkinger by which about $350 "court costs" will be paid to city police, as witness fees in Lawrence county court cases.

In March of 1930 council passed a resolution prohibiting police and other city employes from drawing court witness fees and prescribed it should be paid to the city treasury.

Some of the police in signing over the witness fees made written protests. The county authorities later refused to pay over to the treasurer the fees due the police.

The Fraternal Order of police engaged counsel and today Attorney Harry Frank appeared before council and said the county authorities would release the "costs" to the police if the city agreed.

Genkinger presented the resolution and it passed. The fees will now be paid to the officers who gave testimony in the various cases.

You're the JUDGE

The owners of the Argyle River Textile mill had long been watching the progress of the rival mill in an adjacent county. They knew that the entire progress of that mill was due to the one man who was its manager. At once they determined to engage him for their own mill, and arranged an attractive offer to make to the young man in the hope that they might win him over. When they visited the young man with the proposition, he assented, and they entered into an agreement in writing as follows: The young man was to enter their employ as a specified salary for one year. At the end of the year, and in consideration of the fact that the manager had fulfilled his year's duties well, the mill owners promised to turn over the entire business to him and to a nephew of one of the owners, and give them the stock at a fair valuation.

The young manager, on his part, agreed to accept the business and the stock and the nephew as partner, and in addition he agreed to obtain good and sufficient security for the mill owners for the payment of a certain income to both of them during the whole period of the young expert's control of the business. And the young expert went to their plant.

But after a year passed, the mill owners refused to give up the business, and when the young expert threatened to file suit they answered that they did not regard the security he offered as sufficient, whereupon the young man, now a year older, went to his lawyer and filed suit.

A YEAR BUILT ON THE TIME OF EARTH'S IRREGULAR RADIUS ORBIT

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Just as there is daily siderial time, solar time, mean solar time, so there are various kinds of years. One of these years is known as the Anomalistic Year: It represents the exact time the earth takes to travel around the sun from perihelion (nearest the sun) to perihelion again—365 days 6 hours 13 minutes 53 seconds. There are no two successive days when earth is at exactly the same distance from the sun. January 1 the earth is 3,000,000 miles nearer the sun than in June. Anomalistic means irregular. The earth is irregular in its successive daily distances from the sun, as it moves in its orbit.

As the day's deliberations came to an end there was no indication on the faces of the jurors as to the possible outcome of the trial. It was quite apparent, however, that hostility in the group was lacking.

Several ballots were reported to have been taken by the jury in the session but nothing definite was forthcoming from the juryroom as to how the votes were divided.

The jury of five women and seven men was given four options for a verdict by Judge Walter McMahon. They were: guilty of first degree murder without mercy, which carries a mandatory sentence of death' guilty of first degree murder with mercy, which would mean life in prison without hope of pardon: guilty of second degree murder, which means life in prison with a hope of pardon, and acquittal.

The jurors appeared weary as they trudged out of the jury room to be taken to a nearby restaurant for luncheon. There was no indication, at the noon recess, as to the probable outcome of the case or how the jurors were voting.

LAWRENCE COUNTY OFFICERS IN DETROIT TO GET ROBBER PAIR

plied, "I love you and I'll wait for you."

County Detective H. M. Lee, assistant B. J. Rocks and State Policeman Henecheck departed last night for Detroit to return Mrs. Vera Phillips and Harold Holt to Lawrence county on charges in connection with robbery of the Volant bank in August.

Kenneth Palmer, brother of the 28 year old widow was apprehended yesterday at Grove City and is being held in custody.

After the county detective had received information from Detroit detectives that Mrs. Phillips and Holt had been taken into custody, Lee was given a tip that Palmer was in this vicinity. Yesterday morning he established where Palmer and his young bride were staying and with State Policemen Henecheck, Richards and Gecelosky started for Volant.

Denies Charge

They visited the home of his father near the Perry highway and learned the youth had gone to Brent. From there they found Palmer had gone to Grove City to visit a sister.

When the squad drove to the Grove City house they found Palmer cranking his car. He was placed under arrest without any resistance. When told why he was wanted he denied any implication in the bank robbery.

Palmer is being questioned at Troop D barracks of the State Police at Butler but maintains that he knows nothing of the robbery, according to reports from Butler.

Meanwhile County Detective H. M. Lee, assistant, B. J. Rocks and State Policeman Henecheck are in Detroit where Mrs. Vera Phillips, sister of Palmer and Harold Holt are in custody. The local authorities will secure Mrs. Phillips and Holt and return them here, it is expected.

Mrs. Phillips May Be Bride

(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 3—Mrs. Vera Phillips, comely blonde widow and alleged "brains" of a band of Pennsylvania bank bandits, today prepared to embark on her second martial career. The setting for her second wedding will be the county jail here.

The woman, who variously gave her age as 28 and 35, declared that she would marry Clyde Hann, a roomer in her home. Hann was taken to police headquarters yesterday when police arrested the widow. He was freed, however and before he left the jail he begged Mrs. Phillips to marry him.

Mrs. Phillips notified police today that she would accept the man's proposal. Date for the marriage has not been set.

The woman is held for allegedly plotting the robbery of a state bank at Volant, Pennsylvania, last August, when the institution was held up and robbed of $2,500.

Detroit police also hold Harold Holt, 19 who confessed his part in the crime. Meanwhile, Pennsylvania state police arrested Kenneth Palmer, a brother of Mrs. Phillips, at Grove City in that state. Another man is still being sought in connection with the robbery.

Holt was quoted by police today as declaring he would waive extradition and would return to Pennsylvania with detectives from Lawrence county, Pa., who arrived here last night.

No time was set for their departure.

Rains Welcomed By Farmers Of County

Believed That Water Shortage Is Being Rapidly Solved By Showers

Rains of the past few days will prove a blessing to farmers whose springs and wells have been dried up since early last summer. Some of the springs and wells are still dry but it is believed that with the copious rains of the past few days it will be only a question of a short time until the water permeates the soil sufficiently to replenish the dry holes.

Experience of having to haul water, both for family use and cattle, was an unusual one for many farmers. Few had much idea of the large amount of water consumed until they were compelled to haul it. Some solved the problem by having their wells drilled deeper but there were many who preferred to haul water until nature furnished a supply. It is believed that there will soon be an ample supply.

No Honorary Escort.

The Rev. Michael Mulcaire, vice president and chairman of the board of athletic control, will be in charge of the services. The Rev. Father Steiner and the Rev. Ray Murch will act as deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. Father O'Donnell will preach the sermon.

While thousands are expected to crowd the campus tomorrow only 1500 will be admitted to the church, and it is likely that admission will be by card only.

Meanwhile scores of coaches and former players were reported on their way to Notre Dame. Jimmy Phelan had started from Portland Ore.; Charley Bachman from Florida; 'Slip" Madigan from California; Harry Stuhldreher from Philadelphia, Elmer Layden from Pittsburgh and Don Miller from Defiance, Ohio. It is believed that by tomorrow practically every former coach and player will be here.

Mrs. Rockne expressed a wish that members of the 1914 graduating class—Knute's class—attend the rites. Several are already enroute.

Civic buildings and business houses here were draped in mourning. Tomorrow afternoon practically all merchants will close the doors of their shops when the services are held. Business continues to be a sideline since Rock moved on.

holdup, but she took most of the proceeds," he says. "Out of the $2,500 all I got was a little over a hundred. And I had to beg her for that. The other fellows bought new automobiles." "She insisted that the money was invested in Pennsylvania real estate that was a lie. I found out where it was. It was hidden in the radio," he continued. Asked where he would fight extradition, Holt said that he would return to Pennsylvania willingly and take his medicine". According to Holt's confession, he, Palmer, and another friend went to Downs, Illinois, to rob a bank but became frightened and abandoned the plan. They asked a motorist for a ride, threw him out in a cornfield and drove back to Detroit in his car, he said. They went to Mrs. Phillips with whom Holt was boarding, Holt said. She ridiculed their "puny" efforts. According to the confession, and told them of a bank in Volant, Pa., where it would be "a cinch to pull a job while the farmers are eating." Mrs. Phillips furnished the youths with minute details as to the procedure to be followed at the contemplated holdup, he declared, because, he said, she was familiar with the layout of what she called her home town bank. Leaving Mrs. Phillips in Detroit, the three boys drove in the stolen automobile to Volant and there, August 25, 1930, looted the First National Bank, according to the confession. They then returned to Detroit by separate routes, Holt said, and gave the money to Mrs. Phillips.

"YOU CAN'T BEAT THE LAW"

EVIDENCES continue to multiply that "you can't beat the law."

Yesterday several arrests were made for the Volant Bank robbery which took place months ago. A man was arrested in Philadelphia who had been dodging arrest for his actions in the mid-west several years ago. Fred Burke the noted bandit sought for months has recently been apprehended and is facing trial. These are but a few of the many instances of late that serve to emphasize the age old declaration that "you can't beat the law."

Lawbreakers are being hunted down today just as they have been for ages past, and while it may appear at times that the criminals are getting the best of it, it is only a matter of time until most all of the much wanted criminals are captured and compelled to face the penalty of the law.

It behooves the army of youth of today who seem to believe that they can violate the law with impunity and get away with it, to stop and consider. Take a look around and note that sooner or later law breakers are compelled to face the music.

"You can't beat the law."

Lawrence county officials are deserving of a word of commendation for the way they have worked continuously in the effort to capture the Volant bank robbers. It is an added example of the decree that in Lawrence county as elsewhere, "You can't beat the law."

PLAYING POLITICS

Adjournment of congress failed to bring to the country that long hoped-for vacation from agitation, propaganda, god-saking and breast-pounding. The crusaders for the various causes are as active and audible as though congress were still in session or as if they expected it to be in session soon.

It must be apparent to all by now that certain individuals and minority interests are determined by hook or crook to force congress into special session this year. Some of these may be sincere in the belief that congress can provide relief for the farmers and unemployed, but the suspicion is strong that others merely want something with which to play politics.

Approval by the executive committee of the National Grange of the wheat debenture and the declaration of the advocates of the equalization fee for their pet nostrum are being criticized because of the costly failure of the federal farm board's price-fixing scheme and the heavy treasury deficit already confronting the federal government.

More conservative thinkers are of the opinion that only by preventing a special session of congress can the country escape much so-called "progressive" legislation of dubious value and probable danger.

NO SECOND ROCKNE

A transportation accident has robbed football of its greatest contemporary figure and lost to Notre Dame University the creator of the elevens which have made that school supreme upon the gridiron for several years. The sport will never produce another quite like him.

Football next fall will be less colorful and less interesting because of the death of this one man. Among football coaches he has virtually monopolized the spotlight since he began turning out invincible elevens for his alma mater.

Rockne reduced football and its coaching to a fine art and an exact science. His teams were machines and his players were all vital parts of those machines. They won most of their games because they far excelled their adversaries, and they beat the best that came against them because they were a little bit better.

Football's severest critics believed the Notre Dame mentor sincere when he said his teams required both brain and brawn. They have used Rockne teams to support their contention that good football players can be made from good students, and that football can be made to impróve, rather than ruin, the scholar.

CURBING THE SALE OF FIREARMS

All thoughtful persons realize that the sale of firearms in this state has been too easy for the comfort and health of its citizens. Yet every time a measure of this kind is brought up in the legislature it meets with opposition from certain groups. The chief objection is that such laws interfere with the rights of hunters and make it difficult for law-abiding persons to keep weapons in their homes for their protection. As a matter of fact, none of the bills which have been introduced prevents the sale of firearms, and good citizens should not object to the inconvenience caused by regulating the sale when they know that the prime purpose is to prevent as far as possible the possession of guns by criminals.

However, in order to satisfy the objections of those who desire to have firearms for legitimate purposes a new and modified measure has been presented for the consideration of the lawmakers. This has been so worded that it does not interfere with the guns of hunters or the revolvers and shotguns that are kept about the house for protection against burglars. It seems to satisfy all interests, and for that reason has a reasonably good prospect of enactment. It is significant that Assistant District Attorney Hermes of Philadelphia, advocates the adoption of the first Witkin bill. He insists that it is far superior to the new bill because it provides a double punishment for criminals found with firearms A thug convicted of a crime would be sentenced for the crime and also for possessing firearms without a license. Former District Attorney Fox reminds us that last year, of the 157 homicides reported, 60 per cent were the result of the use of firearms.

The legislature will be remiss in its duty if it fails to pass an act for the more rigid control of the sale of firearms, declares the Philadelphia Inquirer. The original one is to be preferred; but the modified bill will be better than no act at all.

It is a good guess that the devil knows more about human nature than human nature knows about itself.

Are Spankings Good for Children?
Agreeing With Dr. Myers "Spanking Rules"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

It it right to spank a child?

Does it do any GOOD to lift your calloused palm and lay it heavily on a youngster's bare fat legs, so he'll lift his voice in astonished yowls?

It's the quickest way to enforce obedience, but is it the surest way?

Once I could have answered those questions with the greatest of ease. I was cocksure, I knew all about spanking. I knew it was wrong. I knew it was brutal, I knew it was an "admission of failure" on the parent's part, I knew and I'd have told you.

I had no children then. I didn't know they could be fascinating, charming, secretive, sullen, adorable, intelligent, reasonable, stupid, irresponsible, careful, considerate, forgetful, careless, callous, affectionate and hard-hearted—all mixed up together. I didn't know much about kids and if I'd read an article in those days about the necessity for spanking a child I'd have SNEERED!

* * *

But we change. We pick up a magazine like the Forum and we find an article by Dr. Garry Myers, who writes on Parent Problems for Central Press, with the title "Spank It Out." We hear him argue that spankings are NECESSARY, that instead of doing harm they do a youngster good, and that the mother who does not say "NO!" and spank her child before it's three years old has already given it "three years of elementary training in crime." . . . And you begin to agree. . . . At least I did. Dr. Myers even sat down in print a Spanking Code and I'm passing it on. Here it is:

1. Decide on certain things your child must not do, like tearing books, running away, playing with fire etc.
2. Warn him.
3. If he disobeys, spank him immediately. With the hand. Never shake him or strike him about the face or head.
4. Don't caress him immediately after a spanking; and don't worry about the child's not understanding "WHY." That will come later.
5. Don't give positive commands to young children. Give negative commands and very few of them.
6. Spank him automatically and say "No!" while you are doing so.
7. Do this and after a while no spankings will be necessary. "No" will be sufficient, and you will have established "fundamental necessary inhibitions" in your baby before the age of three.

* * *

Dr. Myers says he tried out that scheme on three of his youngsters and it worked. I can't try it out because the children it would have been used on are past three years of age and confirmed "criminals" already. Very little can be done for them now, they're ruined.

And somehow, though I don't like to admit it, I think Gary Myers is right. DO YOU agree that he is? Do you believe the old-fashioned spanking was brutal and the new-fashioned spanking too coldly scientific? What DO you think?

It's a sad thing to cause pain to a little one that you love—but what can you do, what should you do?

PILATE SENDS HIS REPORT

"Boy, send to Caesar a report
Of this day's happenings in the court.
I am too tired myself this night
With charity to think or write,
But say that one of my decrees
Was ordered solely to appease
A public clamor and to save
The Roman cause from dangers grave.

"Barabbas! Yes, they'll want to know
At home why I should let him go.
There was a rebel, cruel, bold
We had instructions him to hold
For death, and now to set him free
Will bring the wrath of Rome on me.
Take care to have it plainly show
The citizens would have it so.

"The soft-voiced Jesus troubles me.
I told them that I couldn't see,
And don't see now why He should die:
Yet they would have His life and I
Was powerless. Boy, make that plain.
They set Barabbas free again.
It was not I, but they who chose
Christ as the greater of their foes.

"Tell them at Rome, that all is well
And now we'll have a breathing spell.
The town is calm. In this affair
I find approval everywhere
Of my decision. Those who frown
Are but the riff-raff of the town
Although the incident seems queer,
I'm sure no more of it we'll hear."

Rejection Of Wheat Buying Opens New Farm Discussion

Public Gives Attention To Prospect That Other Methods Of Relief May Be Made Issues In Immediate Future

Announcement by the Federal Farm Board that purchases of wheat with the revolving fund provided for the purpose will be discontinued is followed by estimates of the work of the board and predictions as to the future. Debenture and the equalization fee are suggested with opposing views which uphold abandonment of all relief measures. The world situation is blamed in some quarters for unsatisfactory conditions, while there is much support for organized reduction of crops.

The thought that the administration policy has been successful in its purpose to meet an emergency is voiced by the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, which adds that it was also intended "to give the farmers an opportunity to help themselves through organization and systematic limitation of areas planted to certain crops of which the country in past years has grown embarrassing surpluses." The Daily News asserts that "the heavy purchases by the board were of benefit to the farmers and to business, which needed the stimulation thus afforded"; that "while many have assailed the board for engaging in arbitrary price-fixing, no alternative policy that would have been less open to objection has emerged from the controversy."

"One is led to believe," according to the LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT, "that the real purpose of creating the Farm Board was, after all, merely to meet an emergency and not to bring permanent relief to wheat growers. The board members claim to have saved wheat growers 'many millions of dollars and a large additional amount to growers of other grains,' and doubtless such claims are justified by the fact that while wheat was selling as low as 65 and 70 cents in foreign markets our farmers were getting around 80 cents for it. But this much has been plain to every man, regardless of whether he is or is not directly interested in wheat: the board could not go on indefinitely buying wheat, storing it and selling below cost. Furthermore, the board could not buy that wheat and unload surpluses on foreign markets without suffering from retaliatory action."

"The board's pronouncement," according to the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES, "must be taken as an admission that while artificial price fixing may bring temporary relief, no permanent help can be had from that source until hand-in-hand with the policy goes a means of reducing the output. So far no one has had the temerity to suggest compulsory limitation of acreage to independent American farmers." The TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL says: "The farmer has not yet been fully converted to cooperative marketing, but there are five farmers for it today where there was one two years ago. This is a part of the work done by the Federal Farm Board and the farm marketing act since it went into operation less than two years ago."

"Purchases of wheat by the Farm Board," emphasizes the FORTH WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, "certainly have failed of their object, which was to increase the price. Whether the price would have been lower had it not been for the board's efforts is a question which can not be answered, but it has no bearing on the situation from a political viewpoint. The fact remains that the wheat farmers were led by Republican politicians to expect improvement in the price situation from the Republican farm relief act. That such improvement has not arrived was a point which could be talked around to some extent. That the Farm Board has abandoned the attempt can not be so disposed of."

"When steel makers find their markets glutted," suggests the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL, "they curtail output. Producing less, they are able to keep prices fairly stable and rather firm. The coal producer, the cotton grower, the oil operator and the grain farmer, to date, have refused to adopt the steel trade's policy." Other papers which are convinced that curtailment is the only possible remedy are the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, the DETROIT FREE PRESS, the CLEVELAND NEWS, the GOSHEN DAILY NEWS-TIMES, the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD, the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL, the NEW YORK SUN, the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE and the HAMILTON (OHIO) EVENING JOURNAL.

"The only recourse of the producers," declares the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS, "is to help themselves by keeping the supply within probable demand. The Federal Farm Board's principal business is to aid producers in maintaining such a balance through cooperative action. Now the spring wheat growers have received fair warning, and other agricultural producers also should heed the lesson." The SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS advises that "as organizations are perfected and the subject of production studied from all angles, a reasonably safe basis of production of staple crops can be reached."

"According to estimates by the National Department of Agriculture," argues the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "upward of 42,000,000 acres were sown to winter wheat last autumn. That is a decrease of only one and one-tenth per cent under the acreage of the parallel season of 1929 and only one and four-tenths per cent under the average of the five years preceding. 'Among the States which grow winter wheat, Nebraska and Colorado alone showed more than a ten per cent reduction, while Missouri and Washington showed more than a ten per cent expansion.' As winter wheat constitutes from seventy to seventy-five per cent of this country's entire crop, the spring sowing must be markedly restricted if there is to be a noteworthy lessening of the acreage for 1930-1931. This does not now appear likely."

"A dispatch from Kansas," quotes the BALTIMORE SUN, in discussing a talk by Chairman Stone of the Farm Board, "says: 'He indicated that the board might make some sales if plantings were smaller than usual, but, otherwise, might hold its wheat for an indefinite period.' This would seem to be just about the perfect technique to defeat the Farm

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

EXPERIMENTS THAT FAIL

The experiments of scientists are often failures, and sometimes worse than failures.

A bunch of them recently sent up a sounding balloon at Pittsfield, Mass., for the purpose of securing meteorological data in the free air at great heights. It was inflated with hydrogen gas to make it rise, and it carried a silk parachute for the purpose of bringing safely back to the ground the delicate recording instruments which is carried.

The balloon performed as expected, but the meteorlogical instruments were not found. A few days after the balloon was sent up, a bill was received from a farmer residing near Springfield, Mass. demanding payment for a cow. He explained that the rubber fabric which once constituted the balloon descended in his cow pasture, and a cow, thinking it was manna from heaven, tried to swallow it whole. But the unfortunate cow choked to death in her attempt, and the irate farmer demanded reimbursement.

The scientists were at first doubtful of the accuracy of the farmer's statements, but on visiting his farm found evidence to convince them that his statements were true.

WHO'S OUT OF STEP

You feel that if there were more people like you, the world would be filled with much more of joy and contentment and there would be advancement and general industrial stability.

Just leave it to you and things would be right.

Often you feel quite alone because so few have your viewpoint.

You actually believe that your ideas are right and have never considered the possibility that you might be wrong.

But here's something for you to mull over.

If there are too few human beings who are congenial to you the something wrong is with yourself and not with humanity in general.

The big majority are not out of step.

Aren't you stubbornly set as to what a man should represent?

You greatly regret that you have few friends.

You crave society but are unwilling to bend or make any concessions to those whom you would have as friends.

Pilgrims Crowd Churches In Rome For Observance Of Good Friday Prayers

Churches Of Rome 365 In Number Are Crowded Today By Many Thousands

Imposing Edifices Of World-wide Fame Draw Throngs—Theaters Closed

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, April 3.—Pilgrims from many lands crowded the 365 churches of Rome today to commemorate the historical anniversary of the death of Christ, annually observed here by the Roman Catholic church with a series of impressive rites that usher in the dawn of Good Friday and continue until late at night.

Despite the economic crisis, which greatly reduced the number of Holy Week visitors, the influx of those anxious to worship at the various shrines here and of tourists eager to view the elaborate religious ceremonies was sufficiently heavy to fill all churches at an early hour.

Theaters Closed.

Theaters and motion houses were closed in deference to Good Friday. The chimes of all religious edifices were stilled, reminding the capital of the seven hills of the significance of the day.

The plaza in front of St. Peter's Cathedral was crowded with visitors. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, officiated at the morning and afternoon services.

While the imposing edifices of world-wide fame drew immense throngs of worshipers, the hundreds of devout pilgrims well acquainted with the more secluded shrines of Rome offered prayers before altars hundreds of years old. The mecca of these veteran visitors, as in former years, continued to be the modest little building opposite the basilica of St. John Lateran.

Within its unpretentious confines is treasured the "scala santa", or holy staircase. It consists of a flight of 28 marble steps taken from the ancient Jerusalem palace of Pontius Pilate. Tradition states that the footsteps of Christ were outlined in blood as He ascended these self-same stairs to appear for the last time before the Roman governor.

PIN ABANDONS ITS PLACE IN STOMACH AFTER SIX YEARS

Six years ago Mrs. Andy McCutcheon, now 46 years old, of 19 West South street was pinning a calico sheet to the bottom of a quilt. So engrossed was the woman in her household work that she swallowed a pin which she had held in her mouth.

Unknown to the woman at the time, the pin, about an inch and a half in length, lodged in her stomach.

That was the start of Mrs. McCutcheon's long years of confinement to her bed. Her ailment was diagnosed by numerous doctors for miles around. Some said she suffered from gallstones. Some said she had appendicitis. Others were positive, nevertheless, that it was stomach trouble.

The woman felt the prickle of the pin point for months at a time, but did not realize the pin had remained in her stomach.

Bedridden, Mrs. McCutcheon began to suffer from poisoning that followed the presence of the pin. She also lost much weight.

On Tuesday of this week Mrs. McCutcheon felt a recurrence of the pain. Hot applications were made this time. Suddenly the woman discovered the point of the pin had pierced her skin. She pulled the remainder out.

Her physician announces she will recover her full strength again.

Board's effort to secure reduction of wheat acreage. It is equivalent to saying that if the farmers reduce plantings, in an effort to limit the supply and get higher prices, the Farm Board will be ready to offset any advantage they might get by filling the gap from its wheat holdings."

"No gesture like the debenture plan will serve for a moment," maintains the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, at the same time finding that "the weakness in the present farm plan is that it fails to counterbalance the power of the board to contend for better prices with any power to penalize overproduction." The PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL concludes that, "the government having been no help and the Farm Board being just now a detriment, it will be up to Pacific Northwest wheat growers to see what they can do for themselves."

Doubts as to the efficacy of any government pressure on the problem of supply and demand are expressed by the DALLAS JOURNAL, the ST. LOUIS TIMES, the LYNCHBURG NEWS and the CHARLOTTE NEWS.

"It is reasonably certain," avers the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, 'that the price of staple commodities is gradually being brought down to lower levels, by reason of improved methods of production, and to that condition the world will have to address itself. * * * The export debenture plan which was supported so stoutly by the farming interests until Mr. Hoover cajoled its advocates into abandoning it for his Farm Board, had at least the merit of being an artificial balance for an artificial weight. The high tariff on importation of wheat is compensated for, in a measure, by the export bounty. The two tend toward an equilibrium, but both are unsound economically. The wheat market will have to take care of itself as other markets must."

Diversification is upheld by the SIOUX FALLS DAILY ARGUS-LEADER and the CHATTANOOGA TIMES, while the FLINT DAILY JOURNAL finds some merit in a suggestion for "syndicate farming." The possibility of the revival of McNary-Haugen remedies is suggested by the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE, the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH and the JANESVILLE GAZETTE.

Protesting against the action of the Farm Board, the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS argues: "The Federal Farm Board should certainly reconsider the necessity for pulling out the crop which it has kept under the wheat market for the past year and a half. If this announcement is intended as nothing more than a warning to Spring wheat planters that the future is not assured, and that all who can should get out of wheat and get out quickly, there is no great criticism to be offered against it. Wheat is a sick industry, and as matters stand, a substantial reduction of the 1931 yield is imperative. But even the prospect of considerable loss to the Federal Farm Board on its large holdings of grain cannot justify any desperate action that might result in severe economic setback over a large section of the country just at a moment when every possible factor of business recovery should be conserved."

Changing World To Be Discussed By U. S. Savants

Will Hold Three-Day Meeting In Philadelphia Soon

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—The American Philosophical Society, (the oldest learned society in America) will celebrate its 204th anniversary with a general meeting in its 142-year old hall in Independence Hall here April 23-25 by an attempt to anticipate and guide civilization's next step.

The Changing World is the topic of the three -day meeting at which many of the world's most prominent scientists will assemble and discuss the views of this world and the next step to be taken by mankind.

"The Astronomer's Goal," will be discussed by Dr. Frank Schlesinger, director of the Yale University Observatory, on the first day of the symposium. A lecture on atoms and molecules will follow by Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago then Prof. William Morton Wheeler of the Bussey Institute at Harvard will tell of the "Hopes in the Biological Sciences."

"Lengthening the Span of Life" is the subject booked for the afternoon session of the first day. It will be discussed at length by Lee K. Frankel, second vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. "Technology and Material Progress" will be taken up by Willis R. Whitney, director of the research laboratory of General Electric Company in the late afternoon.

Congressman James M. Beck, Ernest M. Patterson, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Arthur Woods chairman of President Hoover's Emergency Committee for Employment, are other speakers for the same day. At night a round table discusssion will take place under the guidance of Dr. Edwin Grant Conklin of Princeton.

The second day of the conference will open with a session devoted to the business of the society, the election of officers and new members. This is the only session not open to the general public. Last year Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Sir Hubert Wilkins, Prof. Albert Einstein and Cyrus H. K. Wood were among those honored with membership. Others equally prominent are expected to be granted membership this year. Twelve presidents of the United States including President Hoover have been members of the organization in the past starting with George Washington, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

Professor James H. Breasted, noted historian and authority on ancient civilization from the University of Chicago, will preside at the Friday sessions after the business meeting. A number of scientific papers beyond the comprehenson of the average layman will be read at these sessions and on Saturday night the general meeting closes with the annual banquet at which the 225th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, the founder of the organization, will be honored in some manner.

Plunge On All Kinds Of Lotteries

LONDON, April 3.—England, probably the greatest nation of gamblers in the world, will not legalize lotteries, yet a large part of her population hold tickets in them.

Nearly every Englishman has, at some time or another, held a ticket or part of a ticket in the Calcutta derby sweepstakes, and many send to Spain for shares in the Spanish national lotteries.

But the craze for gambling has been given added impetus by an act passed by the Irish Free State government legalizing sweepstakes for specific purposes. The success of the first of these, the Manchester November handicap, has been so remarkable that it is understood that the British government is to give consideration to the large participation of Englishmen in it.

The Manchester November handicap sweepstakes is, however, only the first of several such lotteries. There will be "sweeps" on the Grand National steeplechase, the derby and the St. Leger. It is even anticipated that the Irish sweepstake on the derby may exceed in prize money the Calcutta "sweep".

Now that Gandhi's truce with Lord Irwin has been ratified by the Indian Congress, he will not carry out his threat to starve himself to death, but you wouldn't know it by his pictures. — The Springfield (Mass.) Union.

DID YOU KNOW? - Illustrated Question Box

By R. J. SCOTT

When did Jules Verne wrtie "A Journey to the Center of the Earth"? In 1864.

Superstition.

Why is it thought to be unlucky to light three cigarettes with one match?

This superstition had its origin in the old Russian funeral service custom of lighting three altar candles from one taper. It was considered an act of impiety to make any other lights in groups of three. Ill luck was supposed to follow such an act.

Stradivarius.

Who was Stradivarius?

Antonius Stradivarius was the most famous of the violin makers of the Cremonese school. He was born in 1644, in Cremona, Italy. He probably was apprenticed to Niccolo Amati, who at that time was the greatest of the Cremonese masters. His first instruments resembled those of Amati. When Amati died he left his wood, models and tools to his pupil. Stradivarius must have made approximately 2,000 violins, although comparatively few of these are in existence now. Thousands of copies have been made in the last century. Labels as well as the original design have been copied, usually without acknowledgment.

Paris Intrigued By Latest Mode In Half Veils

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 3.—"Kiss me if you wish" veils are the very latest novelties in Paris, being fine little voilettes reaching just to the upper lip and meaning all that the name suggests.

Then there are the "Kiss me if you please" veils which suggest even more. They cover the face as far as the eyes and are mainly intended to keep the perfect forehead wave in place. They are also very convenient, these little cobwebby meshes, for hiding a too-angular expanse of brow or one that has not seen the beauty doctor quite soon enough.

Although the French modistes periodically decide that veils are unnecessary and temporarily suppress them, they really never seem to disappear for very long in Paris. Some of the newest ones invoke special interest, for on the fine mesh a kind of pictorial design is worked very small in thicker thread or a very fine chenille. It is most effective when silhouetted against a lovely white forehead and any masculine admirer has a very good excuse for coming close to examine the design.

Very attractive also is the veil with the motif carried out in some sort of silk in contrasting tone and sewn to the veil.

Hats in moulded gros grain which are one of the new spring fancies look very well with the little veil. Those of flat feathers are also coming back. One at Camille Roger's is made half of flat cock feathers and half of straw.

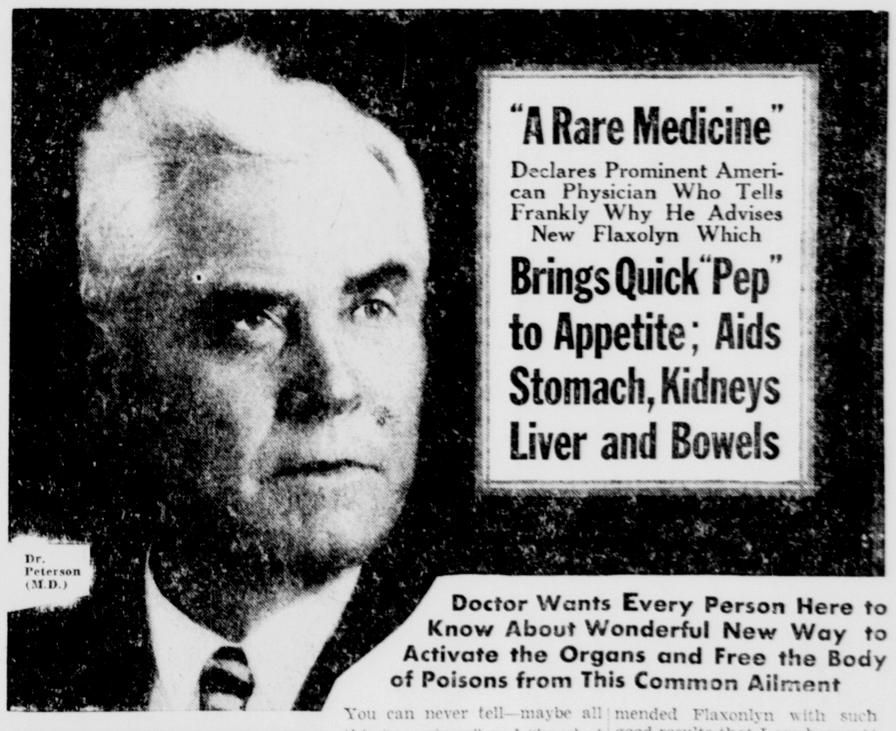

Chase For Rabbit Saves Autoist's Life

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 3.—J. E. Ekberg of Tulsa, Okla., probably owes his life to a pet rabbit.

A truck in which Ekberg was riding near here was forced from the road by another car and turned over. The rabbit, which he was taking to Tulsa, jumped out and started across the road. Ekberg hastily crawled through the windshild to catch the pet and when he was about ten feet from the truck it burst into flames.

"If it hadn't been for that rabbit I probably would have taken my time about working my way out through the door—and that would have been just too bad," he said.

Whether family, wealth or achievement is the thing that counts depends on which one you have.

"A Rare Medicine"
Declares Prominent American Physician Who Tells Frankly Why He Advises New Flaxolyn Which Brings Quick "Pep" to Appetite; Aids Stomach, Kidneys Liver and Bowels

Doctor Wants Every Person Here to Know About Wonderful New Way to Activate the Organs and Free the Body of Poisons from This Common Ailment

"This Formula Has My Unqualified Endorsement" states Dr. Christian Peterson

"Mother Nature herself endows Flaxolyn with many of its health powers," one doctor has said. And this is true.

Flaxolyn is a combination of good old-fashioned sun-dried and airdried herbs, with highly approved vegetable extracts, bile salts and modern organic medicinals.

Leading doctors the world over, retained to give expert opinion of the Flaxolyn formula, enthusiastically praise its UNUSUAL merit.

You can never tell—maybe all this "grogginess" and "knocked out" tiredness you have been suffering from, is just the result of repeated attacks of constipation, a common yet vicious disease in this country today.

Thousands of people who formerly found their energy being drained by this insidious ailment, now feel vastly improved, eat with heartier appetities, and sleep more serenely as Flaxolyn gets at the root of the trouble.

Dr. Christian Peterson (M.D.), Los Angeles physician of excellent standing, states in a recent letter: "I have used and recommended Flaxonlyn with such good results that I am happy to permit my endorsement to be printed publicly.

"Flaxolyn has gentle diuretic action on the kidneys, to help the body get rid of irritating acids. Flaxolyn activates the liver's bile flow and the stomach's gastric juices, and peps up the natural muscle action of the bowels."

Please, for your health's sake, get a large economical bottle of Flaxolyn. Money back unless satisfied with your improvement by the sixth spoonful. Genuine Flaxolyn featured by Love & Megown.

LONDON, Apr. 3.—British traders, from signs appearing over a wide-spread area, are convinced that the great business depression is ending.

Their opinion is based on several main factors. First is the enormous success of the British Industries Fair and the Cotton Fair. Orders received at the latter are sufficient to put Lancashire on the road to prosperity again.

Then the upward movement on Wall Street and the cheerful business of the London Stock Exchange have convinced business men that the revival of trade is world wide. In addition, reports form the big industrial centers of Britian, and the noticeably increased advertising in newspapers all point to the fact that the black period is rapidly being left behind.

In Lancashire there has been a sudden great drop in unemployment. At Bradford, the center of the woolen industry, there is general agreement that the tide has turned. At Nottingham, thanks to the revival of fashions for lace, the city is almost back to normal. At Birmingham, almost every industry is on the speedy upgrade.

Liverpool shows a considerable revival in shipbuilding. Bristol reports that a number of new industries have been started and that there is a general tone of cheerful confidence.

In addition there has been a more effective control of the gold situation, with a subsequent rise in sterling.

Prospect of a world conference to deal with the collapse of silver, which has caused so serious a dislocation in the trade of the Far East, is being watched with great interest by the British Government.

THE DANGERS OF CATARRH

When once thoroughly entrenched catarrh of the head often is communicated to the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, liver and wherever is found throughout the human system the mucous membranes upon which it thrives.

Starting usually with a cold in the head, it quickly inflames the mucus lining of the nasal passages, making sores that suppurate, and discharge an offensive matter that is continually dropping into the throat; and, if one is not constantly coughing and spitting it out, it is swallowed, infecting the mucus lining of the stomach and bowels, making in those organs the same kind of suppurating sores as appear in the nose, causing chronic constipation, ulcerated stomach, cancer of the stomach, liver, kidney and bladder trouble.

Again the passage of the air through the nose into the lungs is bound to be contaminated by the fetid poisons of the nasal sores and thus is the infection carried into the lungs. One has only to recall the terribly offensive breath of the sufferer from catarrh to understand this danger to the delicate lungs. Once the disease is well developed in the nose it starts eating its way through the soft, delicate membranes, often attacking the mucus covering the bones of the nose and destroying them. "World's Tonic," the systemic treatment, helps to attack the catarrhal condition in the body. It helps to soften the sores, soothes and helps heal them and neutralizes the poisonous discharge.

State Forests Could Supply Lumber, Would Save Many Millions

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., April 3.—Declaring that 85 per cent of the lumber business used by Pennsylvania is imported from other states, John Keller, assistant state forestry commissioner, told members of the Rotary club here that savings totaling a million dollars could be achieved if the state forests were in a condition to supply the demand for lumber.

Keller pointed out that lands, denuded of forests, suffered from a decreased water supply. Forested areas, he asserted, always possessed an ever-increasing abundance of water for local needs.

Urges Cultivation.

The assistant forestry commissioner suggested that citizens owning unusual lands could render the state a service by beginning cultivation of trees. The state forestry department, he said, has planted 40,000,000 trees in the commonwealth within the last 20 years, Keller said, in an effort to enlarge Pennsylvania's supply of timber and to provide for future needs.

Discussing the ever-present forest fire hazard, Keller told his hearers that the first demand in forest fire prevention work is construction of good roads to make forest preserves readily accessible in time of fires.

The state, he added, has not overlooked the recreation value of forests. More than 24,000 camp sites have been leased by the state, he said, on which camp and other utility buildings for visitors and tourists have been constructed.

Aged Woman Likes Her Old Clay Pipe

"Grandma" Jane Parsons, Says Young Girls Better Off To Smoke Pipes

(International News Service)

MT. UNION, Pa., April 3.—Girls will be a lot better off if they discard cigarets and take to the old clay pipe.

That's the advice of "Grandma" Jane Parsons here, who recently celebrated her 94th birthday—and proudly admitted she has smoked an "old dugeen" the greater part of hat span.

"I've smoked a clay ever since I was old enough to light one," said she. "My mother was a tailoress and as she sewed I kept her pipe a-going for her."

"Grandma" Jane still enjoys smoking, she says, as well as knitting and conversation.

She is the mother of 12 children, and has 69 grandchildren, 10 great grandchildren, and eight great great grandchildren. Her first husband, Columbus Wiser, was killed in the Battle of the Wilderness during the Civil War, a conflict which the aged lady vividly recalls.

Refuses To Pay For His Meals

NORRISTOWN, Pa., April 3. — Thomas Shannon, arraigned before a magistrate here and charged with failing to pay for food he had eaten at the boarding house of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, put up strong objections before agreeing to pay $11 to his landlady.

He had stayed at the Wilson home for several weeks, he told the magistrate, and had eaten there.

But, he added, the food which Mrs. Wilson served had all been obtained through local charitable organizations and he felt no compulsion to pay for it.

Man Learns To Walk Again After 34 Years

POMEROY, O., April 3.—Charles Curtis, 70, has learned to walk for the second time in his life.

Curtis lost the use of his legs in an accident when 20. He could move only his head for 10 years. But instead of becoming a helpless invalid, he became correspondent for a newspaper, transmitting news items over a telephone.

A few years later he began to sense a slight feeling in his fingers and toes. Then he found he could roll over and crawl for a short distance.

Finally he grew strong enough to walk with the aid of crutches. He was able to walk without crutches for the first time in 34 years after the accident.

Would-Be Hubbies Ask Mayor's Aid

ELYRIA, Ohio, April 3.—Matrimonially-inclined swains of Elyria and hereabouts have turned to Mayor James A. Hewitt for aid in seeking mates.

It all started several weeks ago when Mayor Hewitt received a letter from a girl of Sussex, England, professing information that "the country is fine in Ohio," plus a willingness "to settle down with an American man." The first applicant appeared before Mayor Hewitt the day after the letter was received.

New Temple For Masonic Club

ALIQUIPPA, April 3.—The Woodlawn Fraternity club, a Masonic organization, will erect a temple at 1125-1131 Franklin avenue.

Ground has been broken for the foundation work. The building will be of brick and stone, three stories high and fronting 30 feet on Franklin avenue. The design for the building is a modern adaptation of the Flemish type of architecture. The club rooms proper will be located on the second and third floors with a distinctive club entrance to be provided on the south side of the ground floor. Report Strikers Ready To Return

Decision By Grievance Committee Saturday Is Awaited By Miners

PICKETS BUSY AT MANY MINES

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 3.—Striking Luzerne county miners today remained in idleness, awaiting a meeting of the general grievance committee scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at which a course of action will be planned.

At the meeting, it was indicated, leaders of the strike and delegates to the meeting will decide whether to continue the walkout and their demand for adjustment of grievances or return to work and then demand adjustment of the differences with the Glen Alden Coal Company.

There was a growing sentiment among strikers, it was reported, that the strike should be called off and the men returned to work, but whether that opinion was a majority attitude was doubtful.

Strikers today were reported in readiness to continue picketing of Lackawanna county mines of the Glen Alden Company if they operate. Yesterday, a delegation of strikers picketed the Dodge Colliery, in Lackawanna county, but were driven off by police and firemen with tear gas and fire hose when they clashed with Dodge miners and police.

On returning here, the picketing delegation announced they had succeeded in closing the Archbald mine and were ready to picket three more mines in Lackawanna county.

Subway Builder At Last Gives Up Horse And Buggy

Frenchman Who Built 120 Miles Of Tunnels Buys First Auto

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 3.—The man who built the largest subway in the world has only just graduated from the horse-drawn age.

Monsieur Fulgence Bienvenu, who has constructed nearly 120 miles of underground lines over which every year 900,000,000 Parisians are whisked to and from their work, has but yesterday joined the "moderns"—bought an automobile—and given up his horse and carriage.

Monsieur Bienvenu, who is in the late seventies, is not "old fashioned"—but, he explains, "There are some of the less modern things one just hates to give up."

"I admit that I did stick to my horse and carriage until quite recently, but that was really because of Esther and Robert," said the engineer with a kindly smile and an affectionate look in his agreeable blue eyes. "Esther was the horse, or rather the mare, and Robert was the coachman.

"I realized that I should get faster locomotion in these days when the streets are simply blocked all the time and one must make a quick dash when the opportunity presents but somehow or other I did not know what to do with Esther and Robert. They had both been with me so long."

"It was only after an automobile, the smallest car you can imagine, ran into my carriage and broke a wheel that I had to succumb and buy an automobile myself. Esther is now out on my farm and Robert is punching tickets at the Opera subway station."

Likens Stars To Sparks Of Pinwheel

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Cal., April 3.—Further evidence that the thousands of stars visible to the naked eye and the millions seen through the telescope are merely sparks in a gigantic pinwheel has been found through studies at the Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton.

The studies were made by Lois T. Slocum, graduate student at the observatory, which is a unit of the University of California.

Miss Slocum finds that the faint stars in certain areas of the milky way are apparently in greater concentration at specific distances from the earth, as if they formed a gauzy streamer which spirals through some 18,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles of space.

This information corroborates the finding of Astronomer R. J. Trumpler of Lick Observatory in a study of the distribution of star clusters in the milky way.

Students Snowballed Serious-Minded Editor

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., April 3.—Now that the last snowstorm of the year has swept over Northwestern University, Chester McDonald, a senior and president of the student council feels somewhat more at ease.

When the snow lay on the campus, the students did considerable snowballing. Co-eds usually were the targets. McDonald decided something should be done about it, so he wrote this piece for the student newspaper:

"Unless students cease to participate in obnoxious bombardments, in which innocent girls are assaulted, the administration will carry out its threat to install some sort of campus police to protect serious-minded students before any unforseen accident injures someone."

The day after this article appeared, McDonald stepped unsuspecting out of his fraternity house. Suddenly there was a volley of hard, round snow tokens. Somebody had decided he was too "serious minded."

Start Campaign To Protect Chicks

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 3.—With the approach of the Easter season, officials of local humane and animal cruelty prevention societies have begun a vigorous campaign to frustrate the annual abuse of baby chicks.

Investigation of the societies' agents in past years have disclosed the fact that the chicks have been used for many unusual purposes ranging from Easter toys to distribution as dinner favors during the Easter holiday.

In an effort to prevent such cruelty this year, dealers throughout the city have joined with the societies by pledging to sell not less than six baby chicks to each individual purchaser.

Records of the local Humane society disclosed a number of cases investigated in which it was found that the innocent chicks had been dyed with chemically injurious colors and then mauled to death by unsuspecting children to whom they were given as Easter toys.

Purchasers of small numbers of chicks will be rigidly questioned by the society's agents stationed at local stores in an effort to dissuade buyers from unintentional abuse of the feathered creatures.

Seven Specific Charges Hurled Against Thomas

Mahoning County Judges File Charges Against Prosecutor

CONTEND JUSTICE WAS OBSTRUCTED

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 3. — Seven specific charges that Ray L. Thomas, vigorous Mahoning county prosecutor, obstructed justice in order to aid the Ohio-Edison Company during the projected utilities probe rested with the State Supreme Court today as the answer of the common pleas court judges to the defendant's efforts to block a grand jury investigation of his office.

Answer to Thomas' counter-charges was filed through the court-appointed legal advisers under whose aegis a special grand jury will probe relations between Ohio utilities companies and public officials.

Used Influence

The judges charged that Thomas attempted to aid the efforts of the power company in the following instances:

Obtained release for an Ohio-Edison witness by representing to the court of appeals that he was an emissary of Judge David L. Jenkins in asking the release.

Accompanied by an atorney retained by the Ohio-Edison company, Thomas urged the judges to make public the names of prospective jurors in the probe in order that the company might have an opportunity to investigate them.

Thomas attempted to influence Judge Jenkins in his actions as a jurist.

Thomas told Judge Jenkins that should any one but himself conduct the probe, at least 18 prominent citizens, including an intimate friend of the judge, would be indicted.

Indictment of a representative of the Municipal Street Railway company was prevented by Thomas after jury-fixing charges were made in the R. C. Binder damage suit.

Ethics Violated

In accusing Harry Engle, deposed traction commissioner, of blackmail, Thomas placed himself in violation of the penal-code if the accusations are untrue.

Thomas violated the ethics of the legal profession by proceeding against Engle after he had previously acted as the commissioner's attorney.

Next Tuesday has been set as the date for a hearing on Thomas' request before the supreme court for an injunction to block the utilities probe. His reply to the charges of the court are expected soon.

Resurrection Victory

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.—I Corinthians 15:20.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The fifteenth chapter of 1 Corinthians commands a place for itself in any list one might make of great chapters of the Bible. It is the great victory chapter and a classic upon the subject of the resurrection of the dead and the Christian's victory over death and the grave.

The Gospel Boiled Down

Paul gives one of the briefest and finest epitimes of the Christian gospel in these few words: "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures." Herein he speaks of our sin which calls for a gospel of salvation and then of a Saviour who by his death and resurrection has wrought out salvation. He makes the crucified and risen Saviour the foundation of the gospel and of the Christian faith. Christianity is unique among world religions in this respect. No other religion bases its claims for acceptance upon the death and resurrection of its founder. How well authenticated this stupendous fact is is indicated by the array of competent eye witnesses Paul summons: "Cephas," "the twelve," "above five hundred brethren," "James," all the apostles," "and last of all—he appeared to me also." Thus he enumerates six of the eleven appearances of the risen Lord recorded in the New Testament, sufficient to prove Christ's victory over the forces that assailed Him, and assail us, viz., sin, Satan, death and the gave. By His victory "He hath abolished death and hath brought lie and immortality to light through the gospel.

The resurrection of Christ is not related merely as an historical fact, but as a vital present personal possession of power passed on by Him to the believer. "If Christ hath not been raised your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ have perished." So faith, forgiveness and hope for the life beyond are dependent upon Christ's resurrection. His victory there means our victory here for He is but "the first fruits of them that are asleep," and prophetic of that glorious harvest when "in Christ shall all be made alive."

Pauls Doxology

The contemplation of this identity of the believer with Christ, which makes Christ's death for sin as the believer's death for sin, and Christ's victory over sin and death as the believer's victory, brings from Paul's soul a great hymn of praise, a doxology of victory: "Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin: and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!" Some folks' religion is made up of question marks. Paul threw all the question marks at his enemies. His was a religion of exclamation points! Tremendous affirmations founded upon facts, indisputable facts, creating hope not for this life only but for the life to come and assuring victory over sin and death "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

(The International alternate lesson for Easter is 1 Cor. 15:1-8,50-58, the subject being, "The Resurrection" and the Golden Text, 1 Cor. 15:20. "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept.")

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back the first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

Croton Church Easter Program

Full Easter Day Program Begins With Sunrise Service And Breakfast

Easter augurs to be a busy as well as a joyous day for the members of the Croton Avenue Methodist church with Rev. Clifford S. Joshua directing events.

At 6 o'clock Easter morning there will be a service of rejoicing over Christ's victory over the grave, with suitable songs and scripture reading: this will be followed at 7 o'clock by a breakfast in the dining room of the church. In connection with this breakfast, the pastor of the church, Rev. C. S. Joshua reports that friends of the congregation has donated 32 pounds of bacon, 120 dozen eggs, 18 pounds of coffee, a large amount of cream, 400 oranges, 10 pounds of butter and four bushels of potatoes, therefore the women of the church, who will prepare the breakfast are planning to take care of a great crowd.

At 9:30 a. m. the regular session of Sabbeth school will convene to be followed at 11 with communion service and reception of new members: at 2 p. m. there will be baptismal service: at 6:30 p. m. the Epworth league will have their meeting and the day will close with the presentation of "God's Harmony," a musical production, written by Miss Eve Nicklin.

Good Friday service will include a service at 8 o'clock this evening, with a sermon on "Crucifixion" by the pastor, followed at 9 by an interview of new members and parents of children, who are to be baptized.

It is estimated that more than $40,000,000 are lost every year in the United States because of poor quality milk and cream.

Boost Millage For Good Roads

Seventeen Townships In Mercer County Seek Increased Road Funds

Fredonia Students Win State Recognition In Agricultural Work

MERCER, Pa., April 3.—In 1930 increased road tax was asked in 20 Mercer county townships. To date 17 have filed similar petitions this year.

The law provides that ten mills may be levied for road purposes by the township officials. Beyond that amount there must be a court order.

STUDENTS WIN HONOR

Seventeen out of 62 boys taking agriculture at Fredonia vocational school have won state recognition. Four members of the graduating class of this year are leaders in this work.

Ralph Fritz, 18, was named first in livestock judging and represented the state at the international contest in 1930.

Paul Leisher, 17, was first in growing grain; Lee Mohney, 17, first in potato growing, and Lee Lesnett, 18, placed well in dairying in state contests.

MANY NAMED NOTARIES

Recorder William G. Jones reports 55 notaries public who have been appointed since January 1, 1931. Of this number 44 have taken the oath of office.

TO PAY ROAD BONDS

Mercer county will pay off $80,000 in road bonds during July and August, reports Treasurer G. R. McQuiston.

In September the county will pay off the remaining $18,000 of the $200,000 issue floated in 1909 to take care of the floating debt.

PLAN COMMENCEMENT

The annual commencement program at Freedonia vocational school is carded for June 3. On this date 27 students graduate. The school enrollment is now 150.

HOLD UP ROAD WORK

Road building of ash and slag is through in Mercer county until the state highway department provides township aid money. If the Pinchot program of 20,000 miles of road building is accepted no money will be provided for this work.

Fifty miles of road in this county is held up until decision is made at Harrisburg on this question. Mercer county gets 372 miles of the Pinchot program.

other day when the national advisory committee on livestock passed a resolution, at a meeting in Chicago to the effect that oleomargarine containing more than 50 per cent of animal fats produced in this country, and no imported oils or fats ought to be free of any tax.

That, of course, is a direct crack at the great dairy branch of agriculture, which won a spectacular victory over oleomargarine in the closing hours of congress.

Oleomargarine, and very good oleomargarine, can be made out of almost any old kind of fat, animal, vegetable—and I almost said mineral. (But I believe imitation butter from crude petroleum is just a little beyond the chemist, as yet, smart as they are.) They are using vegetable oils more and more, and the old-time oleo, alleged to be made of unmentionable packing house wastes, is as out-of-date as pantalettes.

The stockmen can see no reason, they declare why the dairy-cow-owners should have the best part of the valuable butter and near-butter market to themselves. The owner of a Shorthorn steer ought to be allowed to spread the nation's bread, on equal terms with the owner of a Holstein cow. Bar out foreign animal fats and foreign cocoanut and palm oils, if necessary, but let the packers sell home-produced oleo without handicapping it with any tax. Then the packers can and will pay a little more per pound for our live steers.

It is a pretty good argument, as arguments go, but the dairymen will be found surprisingly deaf in that car. Butter, they say, is the only perfect bread-spread. Everything else, no matter how attractive to the eye and harmless to the gizzard, is an inferior substitute. If colored to imitate butter it becomes a dangerous fraud on the consumer. It ought to be prohibited by law, but as we can't do that, at least we will put a tax-handicap on every pound of it. The public must and shall have its vitamins, found only in butter.

* * *

And there you are. The dispute may eventually get into congress and the state legislatures but the chances of the stockmen are not so good. They have a fairly good story. But butter has the vitamins and—what is even more important—it has the votes.

HONEY DRESSING

For fruit salad the ordinary bought salad dressing is much improved by adding a tablespoon or two or strained honey. This thickens and sweetens the dressing at the same time. And the appearance and taste of a fruit salad is much enhanced by a dab of mint, grape or elderberry jelly on the salad. Any fruit jelly which is clear and colorful may be used.

Excavate Amber Dating From Ice Age

(International News Service)

KOENIGSBERG, April 3.—Various implements of bone and a bronze ax have been found in the Memel district, now a part of Lithuania. They probably date from the period 1400 to 1000 B. C.

Much older, and of especial interest for geologists, are a number of pieces of amber unearthed in Neudorf, West Prussia, 30 miles inland from the Baltic. The date from the Ice Age, when glaciers from the north penetrated into the continent.

There are nearly 1,000 agricultural laborers employed in London.

Woman Elected Commerce Head

In her new position Mrs. Bingham rules over her husband, her mother and sisters, all of whom are members of the Bingley chamber.

"I am used to dealing with the opposite sex now," says Mrs. Ingham.

Paris Dentists May Have To Be Doctors

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 3.—Dentists must be doctors in France in the future if a proposal recently made before the French Academy is put into effect. No one shall be allowed to practice denistry without being a qualified medical practitioner. The proposal will undoubtedly hit a large number of American dentists practicing in Paris but it is probable that the passing of the medical examinations will not be made compulsory until five years after the date of the proposed Act.

Professor Roussy, speaking before the Academy recently recommended that dentists now in practice and dental students should be exempted from this obligation. He also thinks that surgeon dentists might be given the honorary degree of doctor under certain conditions.

Brother And Sister Claim Florida Fortune

(International News Service)

SHEFFIELD, Eng., April 3.—Twin sisters and a brother living in this city are claimants to a fortune of $300,000 left by Dr. John Kean, of Florida.

They are Mrs. Susanah Crawley, of Apple street, Mrs. Hughes of Nidd Road, Darnall, and Thomas Wood of the Wybourne estate. All three families live in poor districts.

Mrs. Crawley read in a newspaper report that Dr. Kean's lawyers were looking for his descendants and she succeeded in making out a strong prima facie claim.

Dr. Kean was the great-uncle Mrs. Crawley claims of herself, her brother and sister, but it is understood that there are other claimants in the United States.

State Gas Tax Fund Enriched

Delinquent Gas Taxes By Two Companies Amount To About $40,000

STATIONS WILL BE ALLOWED TO REOPEN

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 3.—The state's gasoline tax fund today was richer by $40,000, paid in by two companies as penalties and interest on delinquent gas taxes which had not been turned over.

The payment was made by the Frankford Tire Company, Philadelphia, and the Department of Revenue gave permission for both companies to reopen stations.

"There will be no let-up in the investigation into the delinquent gas tax situation," said Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue. "The investigation will be pushed thoroughly. Branch offices for collection of delinquent taxes, such as are now functioning in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, will be opened soon.

The Department recently began a state-wide drive against delinquent gas tax accounts after Gov. Pinchot announced the tax collections were in arrears between four and five million dollars.

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 3.—That English judges, stern and sombre in their snow-white curled whigs and black gowns, possess some sporting instincts was revealed recently when a prisoner, accused of drunkenness at a London police court, asked the judge if he could come out of prison before the Lincoln, the first important flat race of the season.

"How long do you want inside?" the judge asked.

"Well," replied the prisoner, "about seven days will do."

"Yoy can have seven days," the judge said. "That will let you out before the Lincoln."

"It Was Only Medicine That Ever Helped Me," Declares New Castle Lady

Nu-Erb Brought Quick Relief From Indigestion, Gas, Headaches, Constipation And Nervousness, Says Mrs. Turner

MRS. JENNIE TURNER

Although Nu-Erb has only been known to men and women of New Castle for the past few months, it is daily growing in popularity and men and women in all walks of life declare that this new medicine has brought relief from their suffering even after everything else tried had failed. Many local persons have given public statements in which they tell of the splendid experience which they have had with this medicine. Take for example the story that is told by Mrs. Jennie Turner, 1109 W. Washington St., New Castle, Pa.

"I had been in good health until about a year ago. I began to suffer from stomach trouble. My food refused to digest and after every meal, I became bothered by indigestion and gas. Pains around my heart seemed to be caused by this gas and everything I ate disagreed with me. I was troubled by constipation, headaches and I felt nervous and tired out most all the time.

"Shortly after I began using Nu-Erb, I felt better and have continued to improve in every way. I can now eat most anything I please and am never bothered by that indigestion or gas. The pains around my heart never bother me any more and those headaches have also gone away. My bowels are regular each day and my nerves are also much stronger. I sleep fine the entire night through. I eat better and I am feering fine now. Nu-Erb has helped me more than any other medicine I have used and for that reason, it is a real pleasure to endorse such a splendid medicine."

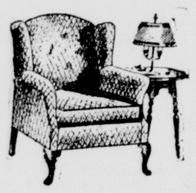

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb Man now located there and let him explain the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Counties Will Retain Control Of Elections

Science Teachers Of State Hear Address By Attorney Maris, Code Framer

New Code Needed To Replace "Half-Baked" Election Laws Of Commonwealth

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 3.—Counties of the state will retain their control of elections under the proposed state election code now before the general assembly, and that code is needed to replace the present "half-baked" election laws of the commonwealth.

Those were among the claims political science teachers of the state carried home today after hearing an address on the code by Albert E. Maris, Philadelphia attorney who framed it, here last night.

The fundamental code provision which calls for centralization of election control in county election boards, Maris said, does not extend the power of the state government over elections. Inasmuch as it gives the secretary of the commonwealth only supervisory powers over the boards.

"And supervise is the word," Maris said, "the secretary of the commonwealth isn't given autocratic power. All he can do is to make the election boards do their duty."

The last codification of the election laws, Maris said, was in 1839 and many of the elections statutes now are "half baked," he asserted.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, who also spoke announced he was working on a bill to amend the voting machine law to give the secretary of the commonwealth mandamus power to force county commissioners to provide machines when a referendum indicates the voters want them. At present, the secretary has authority but no machinery to enforce his authority, Beamish said.

TO RENEW BID FOR IRAQ OIL CONCESSION

(International News Service)

BAGHDAD, April 3.—Sir John Cadman, chairman of the Angelo-Persian Oil company, and a director of the Iraq Petroleum company, has arrived in Gaghdad and begun negotiations with the Iraq government for a renewal and alteration of its concession to his concerns.

Under that concession these should by now have selected the area in the Mosul oil field which they propose to operate; and it was expected then to begin operations at once.

But in view of the state of the world oil market, the Iraq company does not want at present to produce any oil.

Also it wants to get its 1,000 mile pipe line from Mosul to the Mediterranean at Tripoli and Halfa built first, so as to avoid the costly transport down to the Persian Gulf and round by sea.

So it is asking for a prolongation of its concession and offers in return to pay the Iraq government (which at present only gets royalties on oil produced) a deadrent of $1,000,000 a year even when there is no production.

Iraq Petroleum company is a powerful group, Anglo-Persian, Royal Dutch-Shell, a big American group and a powerful French group divide the shares between them.

Other interests, however, are urging that either the Iraq Petroleum company should be compelled to produce oil, or that other concessionaires should be given a chance.

The Mandates Commission of the League of Nations, however, in a report now being presented to the council, takes the view that all concessions should be subject to "Terms of such a nature as to assure the full development of the oil industry in Iraq"

Probably it is no coincidence that Cadman is in Bagdad while this report is being discussed in Geneva.

Of 184,668 grade pupils in Oklahoma public schools, 99.4 per cent were promoted last year.

Senate Delays Action On Bill

Pymatuning Dam Bill Will Be Reported Next Week It Is Expected

BILL PROVIDES FUNDS FOR WORK

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 3.—Sometime within the coming week, it is expected that an attempt will be made to get the Pymatuning Dam appropriation bill out of the senate committee on finance where it has been since it passed the House of Representatives two weeks ago. The bill calls for $1,500,000 for the construction of the dam immediately after the bill is signed.

The delay in the senate committee is not an unusual one, but it is felt that it has reposed there sufficiently long to permit the members to study it at length, and should now be reported out.

In his budget address to the legislature, Governor Pinchot urged that an emergency appropriation bill be passed to provide funds for the Pymatuning Dam, and the speed with which the bill passed the house was proof of the sincerity of his statement. Under the provisions of the bill it becomes effective immediately upon signature, and in anticipation of the passage of the bill, preliminary work has been done by engineers on the dam, and in the Department of Forests and Waters.

Proponents of the Pymatuning Dam are hoping that the senate committee on finance will get the bill out this coming week and get it passed, that the governor may sign it, and an early start be made on the work of construction.

The dam will be the outstanding achievement for western Pennsylvania in many sessions of the legislature. If passed and signed it means a proper flood control from Crawford county to the Beaver river. It means more water for the Shenango and Mahoning valleys, a more adequate supply for industrial and private purposes, and will give Lawrence county a stream that will be adequate during the entire year.

Bandits Hunted By State Police

AUTOMOBILE IS FOUND ABANDONED

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., April 3.—State police today were pushing their hunt over a wide area for three bandits who yesterday invaded the Jonestown Bank and Trust Company, at Jonestown, near here, and escaped with about $6000 in currency after trussing up three bank officials.

No trace of the bandits has been found since the car in which they fled from the holdup was found abandoned near Jonestown late yesterday. The car, police reported, had been stolen from P. H. Pieffer, of Reading. The bandits, it was reported, changed from the stolen car to another bearing Ohio license plates.

Tacks were strewn over the road behind the fleeing bandit automobile to interfere with pursuit, state police reported.

Prisoner Asks Pay For His Work

BUTLER, Pa., April 3.—When Harry Wetzel of Nixon station, confined in the Butler county jail on a minor charge, was ready to leave he presented to Sheriff Lawrence Thompson a bill for $14, claimed to be due him for scrubbing and cleaning about the jail. He even included the time he had used in taking baths. Not to be outdone by the departing "guest", Sheriff Thompson gave Wetzel a bill for $15 for board and lodging during the latter's time in jail. Wetzel was permitted to leave the jail without paying the difference.

Gets Out Of Jail, Gets Awfully Noisy, Gets Jailed Again

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa., April 3. — An "in again, out again, gone again" drama, reminiscent of the old doggerel, was enacted at the local jail recently, but with the added attraction of a legal "jail break."

Claude Painter was locked up in the calaboose on a charge of intoxication, then posted forfeit for his release. And it was discovered the only two police officials with keys to the jail were not in town. A patrolman finally released Painter by sawing through the clasp of the cell lock.

Next day, infuriated and, police said, re-inebriated, Painter appeared in town hall, shouting he was going to sue the town for $100,000. He was locked up again—in another cell.

Philadelphia Now Has Low Crime Rate Due To Cooperation By Mayor

Mayor Mackey Honestly Backing Safety Director Says General Butler

Pittsburgh Citizens Hear Fiery Marine Assail "Political Police"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 3—Philadelphia now has one of the lowest crime rates among American cities which is simply due to the fact that the mayor is honestly backing his safety directors.

"It's nonsense to think a few thugs can hold up thousands of police, if the hands of the latter are not tied by politics.

"If the police were given the same authority as the Marines, they would get the same results—no lowdown politician can get a Marine."

Question of Honesty

These were a few of the succinct observations left here today by General Smedley D. Butler, Marine commandant, in the wake of his speech before the Optimists Club of McKeesport.

The grizzled warrior's remarks were characteristically blunt and forceful. He declared crime suppression to be nothing more than a question of "honesty in public office' and asserted the voters have themselves to blame because they tolerate dishonesty among officials.

"Philadelphia now has one of the lowest crime rates among American cities," he continued, "which is simply due to the fact that the Mayor there is honestly backing his safety director. When I tried my hand at that Philadelphia job, I found that the police were not supposed to do what they had been hired to do.

"If the police were given the same authority as the Marines, they could get the same results. No lowdown politician can get a Marine. If a Marine shoots someone in the line of duty, he does not have to stand trial before a local jury that may be composed of sympathizers of the person shot.

"In such a case, a Marine can get justice. A policeman can't."

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 3.—Chase S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, made a special trip to Purdue university here from Florida to register again as a student.

He enrolled for a course in economics in order to qualify himself for an initiation into Sigma Chi fraternity to which he was pledged secretly. The fraternity rules require that all initiates be registered as students. Special faculty dispensation was obtained to register Osborn.

Osborn's formal induction into the national social Greek Letter College fraternity took place at the regular initiation exercises at the Sigma Chi house here. Osborn's son George and his son-in-law are both members of the same fraternity at the University of Michigan.

Osborn was compelled to drop out of Purdue university in 1880 a few months before graduation.

The Michigan ex-governor now will be able to carry on his vest a campus croix de guerre as fraternity pins commonly are known on the campus.

LIMIT CREDIT OF STUDENTS AT OXFORD

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 3.—Under graduates at Oxford University, notorious for their reckless spending on the credit system, are to have their wings clipped.

Long-suffering parents, tired of paying heavy bills incurred by their youngsters, have formally asked the Oxford Chamber of Trade to put their son's dealings with the local stores on a cash basis.

The Chamber has made a list of the undergraduates concerned and circulated it to members, with the result that the boys whose names appear on the list will in future have to pay on the nail for everything they buy in Oxford.

In addition, the Chamber has approached the University authorities with a view to devising some scheme of modifying or stopping altogether the system of extending credit to undergraduates.

"Isis," the Oxford college weekly, recently estimated students of the University owed a million dollars to local storekeepers.

It is local knowledge that under the credit system undergraduates hopelessly overspend their allowance on advance. Some students have been heard to boast, after leaving Oxford, of the size of the debts they left storekeepers to recover from parents and guardians.

Local stores owners are hopeful that as a result of the new development students will be more careful in their spending and that business in future will be conducted on a cash basis.

Business And Pleasure Session Held On Wednesday Evening

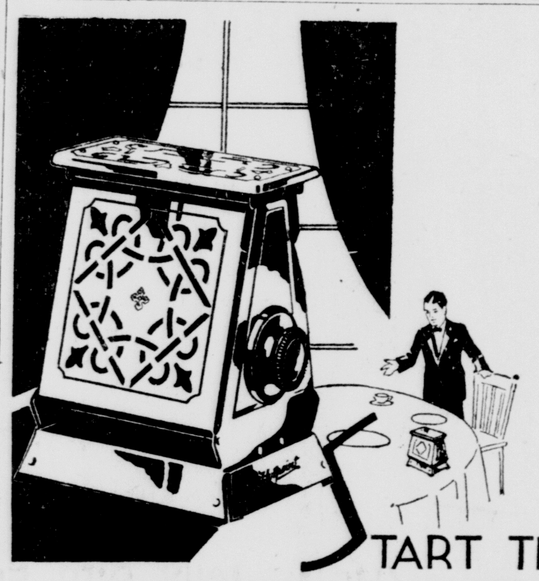

The session held by New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle on Wednesday was of business and pleasure combined, and with an excellent attendance. Many items of interest were disposed of briefly as the members were anxious to sample the large number of splendid pies built by some of the circles finest caterers for the event. This first pie social held for "The good of the Order" was certainly a successful feature of the social hour and thoroughly enjoyed throughout.

An excellent report of the meeting held in the Junior High school on March 26th for the newly naturalized citizens of Lawrence County was given by Helen Ray, Guardian of the Circle. On Wednesday evening April 8th, the members and their friends will enjoy the usual card party held by the circle and the junior circle will hold their regular session at the usual hour.

Gold Producers Seek Increase In Fixed Price

By RICHARD RANDOLPH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BOULDER, Colo., April 3.—A raise in the price of gold from the present arbitrary rate of $20.67 per ounce to $30 per ounce is necessary to overcome the world shortage of the yellow metal and to place the gold mining industry on a paying basis, according to a resolution recently adopted by the Boulder County of the resolution have been presented to members of congress and to many metal mining and engineering societies.

The resolution points out that economic restrains have tended to drive out of business all but the largest and richest mines. Production of gold will decrease steadily in the United States and in other gold-producing countries until the price is raised, according to the resolution.

The Boulder county gold miners call attention to the fact that the world shortage of gold—a subject which is concerning all civilized countries at present—is not due to exhaustion of the gold supply. Instead, production is being stifled by economic factors, chief of which is a fixed price so low that gold cannot be profitably produced.

"If the gold standard is to be maintained," the resolution declares, "the supply of gold for the purpose must be augmented; in other words, the mining of gold must be stimulated. To this end, various nations are paying a bonus on gold production, which is in itself a corroboration of the stated fact that the present standard of gold value is too low."

The resolution then seeks to correct what was termed the widespread, but unwarranted, belief that the existing gold deficiency is due to playing out of the sources of gold supply.

"As a matter of fact," the Boulder county miners contend, "an economic condition has forced the suspension of gold mining throughout the world, except in a few of the more favorably situated mines of large production. There are reserves, however, capable of producing gold in whatever quantity commerce may require."

The miners lay the blame for their troubles into the arbitary price fixed by the government for coinage value of the metal. This price, they contend, was fixed during a period when the price level of all other commodities were lower than at present. Cost of mining gold has practically doubled since that time, with the result that gold can not be produced profitably from low-grade ore which is found in all western states.

A price of not less than $30 per ounce for gold to be used by the government in making money is asked by the miners in order to put gold on an economic parity with other commodity values.

Walter H. Gaither Is Buried Today

Funeral services were held in Homewood cemetery, near Pittsburgh, today for the late Walter H. Gaither, former Pittsburgh political writer and at one time secretary to former Governor John K. Tener when the latter served a term in congress. Gaither was well known to a number of New Castle people. He was born in Erie and served many years in the newspaper field, working on the Pittsburgh Post and the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

He had lately been engaged in the insurance business. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Marie Bradley Gaither.

Reviewer Classes "Tabu" As Screen Masterpiece

By WALLACE K. RAWLES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—"Tabu", is a quiet pleasant picture that starts and finishes in the romantic and love troubled waters of the glamorous South Seas.

Floyd Crosby photographed it and his shots of waterfalls and of the ocean in placid and bothered moments were fine.

Tragically, the two persons most interested in "Tabu" never will see it.

Reri, a native-born South Sea inlander, who played the lead in the strange picture, never will be permitted to see it. F. W. Murnau, famous German who directed it, was killed in an automobile accident near Santa Barbara a few days before the film was previewed in the producers studio recently.

Murnau left a classic. "Tabu" is an idyll of the South Seas. It has "screen electricity," i.e., emotional appeal. The story, simply told, unwinds smoothly. The cast is composed entirely of South Sea islanders, with a few half-castes and Chinese.

Tender love scenes between Matahi and Reri interrupted when Reri leaves with tradition-bound Hitu; a fight with a shark; native dances; lonely waterfalls where nymphs frolic; and a grand climax, made doubly attractive by Crosby's photography, headline this curious but interesting picture.

A favorite picture-of-the-month with the reviewer was "Dishonored," made by the famous team of Marlene Dietrich, star, and Joseph von Sternberg, director. It has a gripping plot, is splendidly acted, teems with suspense and color.

It is a spy story which von Sternberg gave several original twists. A lady of disrepute in police circles suddenly is catapulted to the dizzy heights of sharing her nation's closely guarded war secrets. She guards them well—but her love escapes to a male spy of the enemy forces.

There is a volley of shots in a snowy prison yard—and the story ends, dramatically, terrifically.

Marlene is revealed as a pianist of ability, as well as a clever actress.

"The Age of Love," Ernest Pascal's novel has been selected for Billie Dove's first starring film which Howard Hughes will produce. It is a modern romantic drama and money will be spent without stint it was announced, in making it a picture of first magnitude.

No more bathtub ring

BY MARY LEE WORK

How to remove it without rubbing—scrubbing—scouring

An easy way to conquer this and 2 other hard jobs

Would you like to know how to get bathtub rings out of the bathtub without having to go through the drudgery of scrubbing and scouring?

Today, I am going to tell you how to do this . . . and to make 2 other hard jobs easier . . . how to cut dishwashing time in half; how to avoid faded, gray-looking washings.

To do this, you use a preparation called Climalene that you can get for 10c a package at any grocery store

Thousands of women are using it and taking the time it saves them to shop, go to the movies, and otherwise enjoy themselves.

It makes it possible for you to do all your own work, and still have lovely hands. For it is made from the same elements as costly Bath Salts and thus really acts as a beautifying agent to the hands.

Banish Bathtub Ring

Add a tablespoonful of Climalene to your bath water. It makes the water soft as summer rain. Soap makes a quick, rich lather.

After the bath—just rinse the tub. That is all. There just isn't any "high-water" mark. No scrubbing—no rubbing.

To Make Dishes Sparkle Like Jewels

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water, plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ⅓ or more—saves ½ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded, Gray Washings

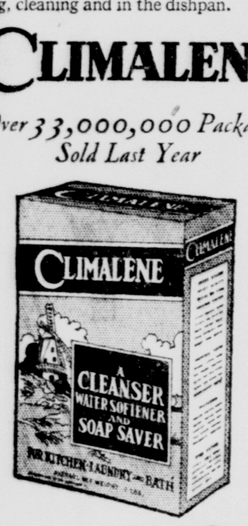

Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ¼ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade, and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of Lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you use now. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time ½ or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

Hope To Check Forest Fires

Study Designed To Develop Better Spark Arresters On Engines, Under Way

PENNSYLVANIA WOULD BENEFIT

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—A study designed to develop improved types of spark arresters on locomotives, an accomplishment which would probably reduce forest fires in Pennsylvania about 14 per cent, is now being conducted by the United States forest service.

Becoming thoroughly indignant over the damage resulting from forest fires caused by railroads the forest service has determined to muzzle locomotives. Equipment of locomotives with efficient spark arresters would largely eliminate railroads as forest fire hazards, officials of the service believe.

In 1929 a total of 11,100 forest fires caused by railroads were reported in the country, 349 of these being in Pennsylvania and doing damage of $14,440 to land burned over. The forest fires caused by railroads in Pennsylvania in 1929 represented 14.2 per cent of all forest blazes, and the damage done by the railroad fires accounted for 13.8 per cent of all damage one by forest fires in the state.

Forest fires caused by railroads in Pennsylvania during the period of 1926 to 1929 inclusive totaled 2,021, doing damage of $183,070. Virtually none of these blazes would have occurred had locomotives been equipped with efficient spark arresters, the forest service believes.

RAVENNA, O., April 3.—Modern, to the nth degree, is Sheriff Jay R. Ferry here.

Ferry was called to serve a summons on a farmer living in the remote part of the county, and the roads were too muddy for automobiles. Disdaining a return to the horse, Ferry leaped into his airplane, swooped down in the farmer's meadow and served his summons.

Ferry is now "The Flying Sheriff," and is widely-known over a large part of the state.

Weather Bureau Chief Says Daylight Time Is Nuisance In U. S.

(Special to The News

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 3—There are 15 cities in Pennsylvania which observe the daylight saving schedules during the Summer and these cities, as well as the entire country, should abandon the practice because daylight saving schedules are a "nuisance" according to Dr. C. F Marvin, Chief of the Weather Bureau.

A survey of the country revealed that there are at least 15 cities and towns in Pennsylvania which practice daylight savings during 1930, and Dr. Marvin thinks that this will be eventually abandoned because it inconveniences more people than it benefits and because it upsets the chronology of scientific studies.

In the United States, he declared the repeated changes in clock time create difficulties in maintaing railroad schedules, hamper farmers in their marketing activities and even discomfort the city employe who is supposed to benefit most from the plan.

Results of the survey showed that during 1930 "Summer time" was confined largely to the Middle Atlantic and New England States, J. B. Kincer, chief of the Division of Agricultural Meteorology of the Weather Bureau said.

Approximately 190 cities and towns in New York observed daylight time during 1930 and in New Jersey there were 118 cities and towns so listed.

Macaulay got $100,000 for his colossal "History of England," the demand for which was so great that the vans carrying it from the publishing office blocked the street.

GOOD FRIDAY IS OBSERVED

Special Programs Are Being Presented In Many Churches

THREE HOUR SERVICE AT TRINITY CHURCH

The most solemn day of the Passion Week, Good Friday, is being observed in all churches of the city today, with services of a reverent, dignified nature, in keeping with the hundreds that will today make the pilgrimage via Dolorosa, the path Christ took from Pilate's court to Calvary, in the Holy Land.

The Trinity Episcopal church is observing the three hours from noon to three p. m. with solemn services, commemorating the time Christ hung on the cross; appropriate sermons on the last words of the Savior will be delivered and the music will be of a nature that inspires reverence.

In the Church of the Nazarene a three-hour fast and prayer service will mark the three hours of the Christ's suffering; and almost every church in the city will have an evening service, with the sacrament of the Lord's supper being served in many of them.

In the Catholic churches the services began with a period of devotions Thursday evening, continuing through the Friday morning service, ending with a procession of the blessed sacrament at eight o'clock. The afternoon service took up the stations of the cross, which will continue into the service this evening, with a sermon. The Holy Week services will be closed Saturday morning with the blessing of the water, fire, incense and pascal candles; with the reading of the 14 prophecies and high mass.

Grif Thomas Will Direct "The Ressurrection And The Life" Sunday Evening

Sunday evening at 7:30 in the First Congregational church the Easter cantata, "The Resurrection and the Life", by Wilson, will be given by the choir of the church, under the direction of Grif Thomas, with Mrs. John M. Evans at the organ.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Mrs. Florence Van Sickle recalls in a communication to The News, the camp meeting days in the Old Pearson Grove near the Epworth M. E. church, where under the shelter of the tall towering trees, religious services were held that were very largely attended by both young and old.

She says among other things that it has been 52 years this coming summer that she remembers as if it was yesterday. Although but a young girl of 18 years, she greatly enjoyed the evangelistic meetings held there. There were preachers from all over the world and people from Canada and many parts of the world in attendance. She remembers of two beds being rented to two elderly people attending the camp meeting at fifty cents a night. Places were very scarce owing to the great throngs of people from everywhere, who attended. There were able speakers. One of the hymns that melted the hearts was Beulah Land. Another beautiful hymn of those days was "A Child of a King."

Mrs Van Sickle sums up her communication "Oh for more camp meetings like these. Let's have an around the world camp meeting here in New Castle again."

To Commemorate St. Elizabeth May 10

(International News Service)

EISENACH, Germany, April 3.—The celebrations planned to commemorate the 700 anniversary of the death of St. Elizabeth will begin on May 10 with a performance of Franz List's oratorio, "Die Heilige Elisabeth," in the banquet hall of the Wartburg.

The following days will see pilgrimages of Catholics from all parts of Germany and many foreign lands.

The religious celebrations will be held in the Catholic church and at the Elisabethbrunnen at the foot of Wartburg, and not in the Wartburg, since this ancient castle is a goal of pilgrimage for Protestants as well as Catholics, and will hence be kept from confessional services.

Two New Castle Girls Win Indiana Scholarships

KATHRYN McCREARY

DOROTHY KINNEY

Two New Castle girls, Misses Kathryn McCreary and Dorothy Kinney, seniors at Indiana State Teachers college, have been awarded the annual Y. W. C. A. scholarship, which is given to the two students who have been prominent in Y. W. C. A. activities in addition to attaining high scholastic ratings.

Miss McCreary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCreary of Martin street, while Miss Kinney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kinney of Croton avenue.

They are graduates of the New Castle high school, class of 1929, where they were students of outstanding ability, and their many friends in New Castle will be pleased to learn of the honor shown them at Indiana State Teachers college.

The requirements for the scholarship award are that the students must be an active member of the Y. W. C. A., be of high character and have a high scholastic rating.

The selection was made by the faculty sponsors of the Y. W. C. A. and approved by the cabinet.

Miss Kinney has been treasurer of the Y. W. C. A. during the past year, while Miss McCreary has been chairman of the social committee.

Last summer they attended the Middle-Atlantic Council meeting at Forest Park, Pa., as representatives of Indiana.

Bo'Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

Central Press.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Who reads the books that daily are ground out by the publishers? Thousands of them yearly. One concern issues four new books daily. Good, bad and indifferent. One of every hundred or so rings the bell.

A new book is like a play. Even the experts can't tell what the public's verdict will be. A book or a play that the wiseacres feel morally certain will get across, likely as not comes a cropper for no apparent reason. While some indifferent piece of work—careless, colorless—part of the mediocre mess, rises to the top, hits the public fancy and makes a fortune for the author, publisher, or producer.

GOOD CRUST, GOOD PIE

Selecting a paper jacket for a new book has developed into a fine art. The old admonition in the show business, "Never judge a play by its eight-sheet," warning against the lure of the billposter, does not prevail in the book publishing business.

The sale of a new book is augmented mightily by an attractive or a bizarre jacket, in two or three colors.

And the distressing agencies, seeing a publisher spending big money on a jacket say to themselves: "That must be a good book if they're squandering all that dough," and accordingly they buy.

* * *

THE COLOR'S THE THING

The next time you're browsing around in a bookshop, take note of the dazzling array of colors on the jackets of the new books spread out for sale. The big stunt is to get a prospective buyer to get to the point where he'll reach out and pick a book off the table. From then on it's a question of Fate; but the books on a table that are picked up oftenest are the books that as a rule sell best.

* * *

Designing jackets for book-sellers has developed into thriving activity. Not everyone has the faculty. It's like poster designing. You can tell the minute you look at an artist's watercolor sketches whether he's dabbling in a familiar channel.

The cleverest designer of them all in New York today is a young South American damsel—Fresia del Pulgar. Her work on the jacket of a recent book made her famous in a day.

SWINBURN A TARGET

Over in Roosevelt McBrides' place the other night the party had reached that stage where they got talking of "childhood's happy hour."

One of the gang had grown up with Al Smith, down in Oliver street. Another had been to school with Jimmy Walker and related how Sir James had wrecked an elocution lesson one afternoon by climbing to the stage and starting to declaim "The Face on the Barroom Floor."

Then Jimmy Weems, who was "born abroad", spoke up:

"It must o' been 30 years ago, or more," said Weems. "We were livin' at th' foot o' Putney Hill, Lunnon, S. W. Swinburn, the poet, lived nearby. He used to wear outlandish garb—outlandish that is, to our boyish vision—and I recall that when he'd leave his cottage of an afternoon for a breath of air, we kids used to follow and throw stones at him."

None of us could think of anything wilder than throwing stones at Swinburn so we abandoned boyhood recollections in favor of Heredity and Environment.

SKUNK DESTUNK

A New York fur dealer comes forward with the glad news that through breeding experiments the odorless skunk has come to stay.

The perfume of the polecat was bestowed by nature on the "little dappled quadruped" as a weapon of defense. To deprive pussy-with-the-stripes of its distinguished characteristics is as revolutionary an innovation as depriving a politician of his savoir-faire.

Savoir-faire has been defined as "ability to lie effectively without a moment'e notice."

GAY GARLIC

In "The Bitter Tea of General Yen"—a much touted new book, Grace Zaring Stone thus describes her heroine's first rickshaw ride in China:

"The coolie had muscled bare legs and he swayed from side to side with a faint trace of swagger; the odor of garlic he had been eating came cheerily back to her."

I may be prejudiced but I think "cheerily" is the wrong word.

County Federation Of Women's Clubs

Thus, said Mrs. Frick, president of State Federation of Women's Clubs . . . . "To measure up to the extra work that is put upon it in this time of depression proves the strength of an organization."

The Federation of Clubs has met the test and its success in using its organized collective ability to function, in a practical way, with other organizations at the call of the president of these United States in this time of emergency, has brought recognition of its organized strength.

This recognition by the governments of state and nation of an organization upon which they may rely for strength in times of stress drapes a mantle of responsibility upon the federation that spreads out and enfolds each individual club woman, a responsibility to be alive to civic needs and community interests and to be alert too, to the relation of woman's influence to such needs.

Following closely in the wake of these months of depression when, for millions of people, hunger of the body has made life only a milling ground for something to eat; pride has been forced to strip off its comfortable garments and bow its head before the bitter winds of want; fear has become the master of life, closing the door effectually to any other dominating spirit; bitterness has so disturbed the vision that goodness and justice can scarcely be recognized, following close, in the wake of this disturbance of life's measured tread, will be found an unhealthy and dangerous philosophy of life.

To feed the hungry and meet the need for clothing and shelter is necessary. But when this period of supply is over a far greater need will have developed because each day of this depression the growth is rapid of unhealthy philosophical tissues.

Hungar and fear and bitterness and loss of pride soon destroy the spiritual moral of even the healthiest and happiest of mortals. So, after these months of moral destruction there must come the period of reconstruction. To whom will the task be assigned?

To fail to recognize the task and its importance and to fail to accept the responsibility to get under the task is to forfeit our claim of strength in meeting the needs of community and state. So, the call is coming down through the ranks of federated clubs to get under this task of rebuilding morale.

This is a task that must fall heavily upon individual shoulders. The little girl or the older girl who needs to be brought into touch again with the joys of living; the boy who needs a new interest in life because of forced idleness; the older man who is about to lose his home into which he has put so much of his life's energy; the mother, crushed by despair because of the deprivations that have dropped so suddenly upon those she holds so dear, these mark the tasks that lie so close to each club woman and such as these are the tasks that should be undertaken at once in a very practical campaign of morale building.

To rebuild spiritual morale is no easy task and yet the most effective tools with which to work are the understanding, kindly interest, the helping hand, and a sound philosophy of one's own that can be passed on.

To think clearly of the after effects of this depression is a worth while study for club women for it will awaken a mighty force that will enable us "to measure up to this extra work that this depression has put upon us" and thus prove our strength.

Why haven't the colleges established course in the technique of investigating?—The Des Moines Register.

Blessed is the nobody. He needn't hide his opinions for the good of the party.

Still Plenty Of Room For American Farmer Says Noted Financier

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, April 3.—All the time that President Melvin A. Traylor of the First National bank of Chicago had been discussing business conditions I had been wanting to ask him about the farm question in particular. It seemed to me that, as head of the rural west's foremost financial institution, he ought to take an especial interest in agriculture's problems. And so it proved, when I managed to direct the conversation toward that aspect of present-day economics.

"I think I understand farming," he said, "for I was brought up on a farm.

"The secret of agricultural prosperity is not essentially different from the secret of prosperity in most callings. It simply is to live within one's income. The industrial worker receives his income in cash; the farmer takes his at first hand, from the soil he cultivates. With judicious diversification—not by the one-crop method—he can keep himself and his family in comfort on his own products. That is as much as agriculture ever promised to any man; generally speaking, it is all that it ever will yield to anyone. The farmer who speculates or engages in some other non-agricultural sideline should not blame agriculture if his extra-agricultural ventures involve him in difficultics.

"This country is not overcrowded with farmers who are content to be plain farmers; on the contrary, in my opinion, we have room for a million or so more of them."

* * *

It happens that a few days before my talk with Banker Traylor, I had had a chat in Washington with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture R. W. Dunlap, who made substantially the same suggestions as the Chicago financier—namely, that at the present stage in our national development, actual livings for themselves and their families are all it is possible for at least a large class of American farmers to take from the soil.

But oh, how dissimilarly the pair of them expressed this same idea!

According to Banker Traylor's showing, a living is all right; for folk who are satisfied with it, agriculture offers plenty of opportunities.

According to Secretary Dunlap, a bare living is the best prospect that great numbers of farmers can reasonably hope for; they will be able to feed themselves and their broods and that is about all. Since agricultural production, for the markets' requirements, so obviously exceeds the demand.

* * *

The assistant secretary previsions a separation of America's farmers into three groups:

1. A relatively small number who, adequately capitalized and operating on a large scale, with the best machinery, by the most intensive, highly scientific modern methods and in favorable geographic locations, will reap large returns as mass producers, at a small profit but a great deal of it.

2. A much larger classification on a par with moderately prosperous urban folk.

3. A basic layer who will raise for themselves what they need to eat, but in all probability will be dependent for whatever else they may requirre upon such employment as they can obtain from the larger scale operators or from occasional job work in city industries—not a very brilliant outlook, considering the extent to which machinery is replacing men in up-to-date farming and the already congested state of the industrial labor market.

* * *

It sounds dismal to hear Secretary Dunlap, whom I take to be a pessimist, prophesy; not a bit gloomy to listen to Banker Traylor, who frankly declares himself an optimist.

Now the fact is that a farmer, once started a-farming (some capital undoubtedly is needed at the outset), does not need much actual currency to live on. He does, of coursee, if he raises only wheat or cotton, even buying condensed milk and canned vegetables; but I am assuming that he has a few pigs and chickens and a couple of cows, plants a small grove of fruit trees and raises an acre or so of garden truck. With these resources he is practically self-supporting; clothes are a negligible item in the country. I once tried it myself and know what I am talking about.

But taxes!—they ruined me.

"I can see," I said to Banker Traylor, "how the farmer you describe can LIVE, so long as no unescapable demand is made on him for cash money, but won't he be thrown into bankruptcy ever so often by the tax collector?"

"Ah-h-h!" exclaimed the banker, "that's just it!

"He mustn't anticipate his income. He mustn't run into debt—either personally or as part of the community. If he does, he'll find himself in trouble, certainly.

"Roads? Expensive public improvements?—all to be paid for in the future. Of course they'll be a load, when the bill comes to be settled."

But can the individual farmer be held responsible if his community overdoes itself and mortgages his future along with his neighbors'?

STUDY ZONING

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3.—As the first subject of the 1931 Harvard University school of city planning research program, Harland Bartholomew, nationally known city planning engineer, is directing a study of zoning which promises to be of immense value to the landowner, realtor, banker and residential property owner. For the purposes of this piece of research Harland studied and will study a large number of American cities.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a tablespoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

GAIN NEW HEALTH

"Ten Herbs benefited my whole nervous system," said Mr. James H. Mackey, 1911 Hamilton St., New Castle. "My general health has been vastly improved since using your medicine. I used to be so nervous that I dreaded to go to work. My appetite was poor and I was troubled with indigestion. Food caused gas, bloating and pains. I was bothered with loss of sleep. Bilious spells came on me and I would become very dizzy and have splitting headaches. There were pains in my back and I often had to arise at night. I tried Ten Herbs and the first bottle relieved me of gas. My appetite improved and I was able to digest my food properly. My nerves were quieted and I could enjoy a good night's sleep. My liver seems to function as it should and dizzy spells have disappeared. I recommended Ten Herbs unconditionally to anyone who needs a good medicine to build up their health."

MR. JAMES H. MACKEY

Ten Herbs is sold at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 E. Washington St., and by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Trichiniasis Not As Rare As Thought

Eye Swellings Sometimes Symptom Of Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Trichiniasis is a disease which used to be quite common when meat was cured on the farm or by the local butcher. It is caused by a tiny worm which infests some kinds of meat mostly pork. The worms escape from the intestinal canal after the meat is consumed and lodge in the muscles.

When meat packing was concentrated and scientific rules for the selection and preservation of meat adopted the disease greatly decreased in this country. In Germany, where raw pork is made into wursts, etc, on farms or domestically, it still appears sporadically. And lately there are indications that it is far more frequent in the United States than has been suspected. There was a report in 1929 of 43 cases in an epidemic in New York.

A well-known practitioner says, "Trichinasis in this country is far from being a rare disease, yet it sems not to have established itself in the mind of the average practitioner as one of the diseases to be thought of and watched for."

An instance came to my attention a year or two ago of a man and his wife who went to visit relatives during the Christmas holidays. When they returned home they both came down with a mysterious malady, the most prominent symptom being swelling of eyelids. Their doctor had several consultants in before the diagnosis was established—of trichiniasis.

These people were in good financial circumstances and their food was of the best class. They were city dwellers, and when in the city ate meat which came through regular channels, subject to federal inspection and supervision. It would be unusual to suspect gross food infection as a cause of their symptoms. But the relatives they visited lived in a suburban community and must have obtained some pork or ham which was not thoroughly cooked. Curing or smoking hams alone does not necessarily kill the trichina.

Swelling of the face, and especially the eyelids is a common symptom. Many of the patients are first seen by the oculist on account of the eye symptoms, and there is a report before me of three cases diagnosed by an oculist. One of these patients had been to two other physicians, one of whom made a diagnosis of protein sensitization and one of chronic nasal sinus infection, treated by the Alpine lamp.

The diagnosis is admittedly difficult unless the doctor gets into the habit of thinking of the possibility of the disease. Most victims recover but death is not uncommon.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

M. Indianapolis: "What are a few poisons which will kill without fail within a few minutes or a few hours? Which are in liquid form and which are not? Is there any cure for the person taking these poisons by mistake?"

Answer: If poison will "kill without fail" there is no cure for the person taking it by mistake.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Frank Moran, 52, is in jail again—the 55th time. He was arrested for picking a man's pockets on an elevated train, and admitted the crime with charming candor. This time police picked up an accomplice with him, a mere youth who has been arrested only 12 times. He was George Meyers of Boston.

Speed Up Work Of Mailing Out Bonus Checks

Pittsburgh Veterans Bureau Office Still Working On March 3 Applications

Work of sending out bonus checks to World War veterans in the local district is being speeded up, Secretary Orville Potter of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, stated today, following a visit to the Veterans Bureau Friday.

The number of checks being mailed out has been increased from around 400 a day to 900, and the bureau expects to complete the task of handling the applications received on March 3, within a few days, when those who have made later application will be attended to.

The work of sending out checks is divided into two classes, those who have had previous loans, and those who are making new loan applications. Those who are applying for loans for the first time are a little more fortunate than those who have had previous loans, as the bureau is now working on the applications received March 9.

Approximately 10,000 applications were received at the Pittsburgh Regional Office of the Veterans Bureau on March 3, which was the peak day. With facilities having been speeded up so that more checks can be made out daily, the Bureau hopes to catch up with the rush in a short time now.

Mr. Potter receives a great many calls each day from ex-service men who have applied for loa- but he has nothing whatever to do with the sending out of these checks, and he has been caused considerable embarassment by people who feel that he is responsible for the delay.

All men in New Castle who made application for their bonus loans on March 2, should soon have their checks. Applications which were mailed from New Castle on March 3, would not reach the bureau until March 4.

Drive Results In 25,000 Dead Crows

HARRISBURG, April 3.—District Game Protector William C. Stevens, York, has reported to the Game Commission that sportsmen and farmers in that section killed 25,000 crows in their recent drive against the birds.

Because the number of crows in the State has increased so rapidly in recent years Commission officials have been backing moves to reduce the flocks. Drought conditions which made natural food scarce for game birds and animals during the present season resulted in renewed efforts to have sportsmen and farmers kill crows. Crows, officials said, help to further reduce the limited supply of natural food for game.

Men Offer Stolen Socks To Officer

Make Mistake In Trying To Sell Stolen Articles This Morning

Mistaking George Kennedy, member of the police force, as he sat in his car at Beaver and North streets, for an ordinary citizen, Bob Quinn and Dan Connor this morning made him an offer of fourteen fine pairs of men's socks for $1, which Quinn had under his coat. The result was that they were arrested and taken to the city jail, where the socks were identified by a representative of the New Castle Dry Goods company as their property. The socks had a sale value of $7. The two men are being held in the city jail pending further action in the case. Officer Kennedy was in civilian clothes and not on duty at the time.

Charles Scungio, 333 Laurel boulevard, whose machine hit and injured Dr. L. W. Statement of Dr. Grossman showed that the car had run a red light in hitting him. Scungio was assessed a fine of $5 for violation of the traffic regulations. Dr. Grossman made it plain to the police that his complaint was not as a personal matter but as a means of protection to the general public.

Bidding Begins For G. O. P. Convention

San Francisco Will Put In Strong Bid For Republican National Session

Strong Sentiment Prevails That Atlantic City May Be Selected

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Although the national political conventions are still fourteen months away, party leaders have begun to give some thought to where they are going to be held, and evidences are observed of the beginning of a scramble for them by various cities from coast to coast.

There probably will be a dozen cities bidding for the republican and democratic conventions.

San Francisco Bids

San Francisco, which entertained its first major political convention in 1920, when the democrats crossed the continent to nominate James M. Cox, is going to put in a determined bid this year for one of the meetings. Inquiry among democratic leaders develops there is considerable early sentiment in favor of going back there, although the usual objections have been offered that the trip is too long and costly.

One democratic leader, a southerner, however, declared today that his first choice was San Francisco for political as well as other reasons. And he indicated he would be prepared to lead the movement at the proper time.

"California is neutral ground for us", he observed, "and I favor it. We had enough of the east in New York in 1924, and we met in the south, at Houston, in 1928. We might meet in the middle west, Chicago, Kansas City or St. Louis, but I'm in favor of San Francisco. We had a harmonious meeting there in 1920, all things considered, and we had a fine time."

Can Show Preference

President Hoover can name the republican meeting spot, if he wants to. That much is assured. It is a sort of presidential prerogative. Coolidge picked Cleveland in 1924, and the Hoover lieutenants forced the selection of Kansas City in 1928. Whether Mr. Hoover will choose to exercise his prerogative next year remains to be seen.

There is some republican sentiment in favor of an eastern seaboard site for 1932, and Atlantic City, with its great new convention hall, is being prominently mentioned. The republicans have not met in the east for many years.

Sees The World On Dimes; 3,700

Missourian Set Aside Every Dime He Received For 27 Years

NEW YORK, April 3.—Oscar S. Bodenhausen started back to his home in St. Joseph, Mo., today after seeing the world on dimes.

Twenty-seven years ago he decided to save every dime he found in his pockets at the close of each day. Last August, having amassed $3,700, he took a deluxe train for San Francisco. There he embarked on a tour that took him to all the places he had been dreaming of—Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, the Philippines, Burma, India, Ceylon, Italy, the Riveria, Paris and London.

"I might have bought a couple of cigars or a glass of beer with each day's savings," he said, "but I didn't, and so I saw the places I wanted to see while the boys back home were plugging away at the daily job without a chance of traveling 'round the world.'

Sells Eleven Vats For "Water Only"

(International News Service)

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 3.—Police Chief Charles A. Anderson had an idea when superior court ordered him to dispose of eleven vats that had been seized when his men raided a still here.

"If I may hold a private sale," he told the judge, 'I think I can find customers."

Calls On Radio To Help Find Lost Calf

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., April 3.—The wonders of the radio are many, and officers of a Denver broadcasting station are among the most enthusiastic believers in the value of services which they render the public. They were recently forced to admit that their powers had a definite limit, however, when they received the following letter from an Oklahoma rancher: "Dear Sir: I had a yearling calf stolen on the 23rd of February, and I have been told you could tell me where and how I can find this calf, if so, write me how much you will charge."

We got a hunch it won't be more than two months before the farmers will be complaining of too much rain.—The Harrisburg Telegraph.

Youth Confesses Killing Mother

ROPE IS USED TO STRANGLE MOTHER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 3.—"Officer, I want to surrender. I killed my mother . . ."

Police did not believe the words of the pale, trembling young man but they went to the address he gave them. There they found Mrs. Barbara Forzelt, 54, dead. A rope was around her neck. She had been strangled to death.

The son, Joseph Forzelt, 29, an idle salesman, today faced a court hearing. He told police he became angry when his mother upbraided him for his lack of employment. He added she had accused him of taking some of her money.

BRITISH RAILS SEEK CLOSER TIE WITH AIR

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 3.—Aerodromes on roofs, lifts from trains to airplanes and autogiros for passengers are likely soon to be features of the railroad traffic of Britain.

The underlying idea is to link up railroad and air travel by means of autogiros, a helicopter type of airplane which can take off and land in a small space such as a garden or roof.

The use of two, four, and six-seater autogiro taxis to carry passengers direct from railroad depots to almost any part of Britain or Europe.

Concealed hangars, from which the autogiros will be raised by patent elevators into position for taking-off the depot roofs, and comfortable roof-top waiting-rooms and refreshment bars for travelers.

Col. J. Josselyn, the moving spirit in the scheme, is certain that it will be a big success.

"For some time" he says, 'there has been a great demand for closer working between airways and railroads. The autogiro airplane which ascends and descends almost vertically has solved the problem of landing and taking-off in crowded areas.

"The building of the roof-top aerodrome is a simple matter. All that is required is a clear space, roughly 100 yards long and the same wide. These could easily be constructed above the majority of our railroad depots.

"The machines would be kept in hangars either on the ground level or on a special floor below the roof. Trap-doors and elevators of the type used in naval aircraft-carriers could be installed to raise machines to the landing stage."

BUFFALO, April 3.—Joseph W. Lynch, 38, one step nearer his goal—the 100th gift of his blood to save the life of another. He submitted to his ninety-eighth blood transfusion to save the life of a friend, William J. Culley. It was to have been made a week ago, but Lynch was injured in an accident.

Mr. Culley's condition became worse and his son submitted to a transfusion, but the improvement was only temporary. Lynch recovered from his injuries, the transfusion was made, and Culley was reported recovering. Lynch began his career as a professional donor of blood back in 1914. He said recently he planned to stop after giving his blood 100 times.

Cuban President Seeking Peace

President Machado Makes Effort To End Political Strife

CONCESSIONS ARE BEING OFFERED

(International News Service)

HAVANA, April 3—President Machado made another effort today to end the political strife and dissention prevalent in Cuba since last fall.

In return for cooperation in solving the country's economic ills and cessation of hostile demonstrations, President Machado offered his political opposition the following concessions:

The announcement of the president's decision was made by his secretary. The statement, expressing desire for an understanding with opposition leaders, advised that a peace pact can only be arranged if anti-government demonstrations and other hostile actions be called off immediately.

Dr. Meyers Approves Pioneer Youth Movement

Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

From that world-famed philosopher and champion of the average family and their children, John Dewey, I received a letter concerning "Pioneer Youth." And let me add I once sat at the feet of Professor John Dewey as a pupil. I quote his letter in part:

"Dear Mr. Myers: 'I would like to play with the children more than I do, but I'm too tired even when I have the time. . . . And my man is so tired when he comes home from work that he just lies down and rests and never plays with the children.'

"A working-class mother interviewed by the authors of Middletown thus explains why fatigue on the job, or at housework never done, prevents the giving of much time to the day-by-day lives of the children. That condition prevails generally in homes of the working class.

"I am writing you to commend Pioneer Youth of America, an organization directly concerned about the children from such homes. It is helping the boys and girls of American workers to livelier interests in their world of work and play and to more creative uses of leisure.

* * *

"How Pioneer Youth is also developing social intelligence among children is described in the enclosed folder, which is worth a careful reading."

At the end of the folder he refers to is the legend, "Pioneer Youth—A Movement for Workers' Children."

Pioneer Youth is concerned with:

Workers' Children—A free-time activity program of camps and clubs primarily, though not exclusively, for the children of workers—boys and girls from 9 to 18 years of age. Children from homes representing more than 100 labor unions have participated in the activities which are inter-racial and non-sectarian.

Creative Education, Not Propaganda—Pioneer Youth begins with activities vital to the children and provides opportunities for the creative development of their interests and capacities. In place of passive, uncritical conformity to authority, it cultivates a spirit of eager inquiry.

* * *

Social Idealism—As opposed to influences which make for a war spirit or personal acquisitiveness in youth, Pioneer Youth wants children to know the movements which make for peace, racial understanding, and economic justice. It aims to prepare youth for active participation in the work of reconstructing society.

Those interested in this movement should write to "Pioneer Youth of America," 45 Astor place, New York City.

Professor William Heard Kilpatrick says:

"From my knowledge of the underlying principles set forth by Pioneer Youth, and from my acquaintance with those in charge, I am of the opinion that of all youth organization known to me it best accords with the foremost educational principles as I myself understand them."

Love In A Cottage Pleases Brewsters

Don't Mind Loss Of Fortune So Long As They're Happy

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—Although his fortune of nearly $3,000,000 flew out the window when love flew in, Eugene V. Brewster formerly a wealthy magazine publisher, doesn't seem to mind. Brewster and his wife, Corliss Palmer, screen actress, live in a modest cottage here. They have no servants and the former millionaire helps his wife care for their home. His fortune was said to have dwindled to less than $50,000.

Previous to his marriage to Miss Palmer five years ago, Brewster's former wife, Eleanor V. Brewster brought suit for alienation of affections against Miss Palmer. Brewster found it necessary to solicit the aid of legal minds here and abroad before he could obtain a divorce. Finally after court litigation had cost him about $200,000 he was granted a divorce in 1926. Later he married Miss Palmer.

Unwise stock investments and unfortunate real estate deals further diminished the publisher's fortune. Publicity growing out of his martial troubles with his former wife damaged his magazine publications.

Brewster and Miss Palmer revealed plans to remarry because of legal doubt of their marriage in Mexico five years ago. Mexican marriages are not recognized legally in some states. Miss Palmer was his third wife.

Mahoning M. E. Caste To Give First Of Religious Drama Series

The first of the three one act plays to be given in the Religious Drama Tournament at the Senior high school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. on Thursday, April 9, will be Zona Gale's "The Neighbors," presented by the Mahoningtown M. E. church. Under the direction of Mrs. Paul Kinsey the cast is working diligently upon this production.

"The Neighbors" is an interesting and inspiring play, based upon the friendly efforts of a group of neighbors to provide some help for the poor widow in the rural community who is soon to have the task of rearing her deceased sister's little boy. The inspiration from the play grows out of the progressive self-forgetfulness that comes over the neighbors as they are gradually swept enthusiastically into doing a kind service for one of their friends. While the efforts to prepare for the coming of the little boy into the community are finally in vain because the boy does not come, still new sympathies and bonds of appreciation for one another are born in the hearts of the neighbors.

Grandma—Mrs. Clark Godwin.
Mis' Diantha Abel—Mrs. Omer Mauch.
Ezra Williams—Quincy Davy.
Peter—C. Frank Mitchell.
Inez—Mrs. Wm. Evans.
Mis' Elmira Moran—Ann Ketzel.
Mis' Trot—Mrs. Mabel Stump.
Mis' Carry Ellsworth—Mrs. Ralph Taylor.

Goat Ordered To Be Kept Penned, Women Are Glad

(International News Service)

COLUMBIA, Pa., April 3.—Housewives here are again free to hang out the wash on Mondays without fear of Joseph Weisser's goats getting their goats.

It all came about when numerous residents complained to police that tablecloths, stockings, sheets and other articles of laundry were mysteriously disappearing from washlines of the community. Investigating, police found Joseph Weisser kept several goats; and the goats kept themselves well-nourished on the neighbors' linens.

Illinois Bank Is Robbed Of $10,000

Bank Cashier And Family Held Prisoner While Bandits Complete Work

NIGHT OF TERROR ENDS FOR FAMILY

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 3.—Robbery of the state bank of Mundelein, Ill., of $10,000 by bandits today climaxed a night of terror for Milan C. Mott, the cashier, and his wife and three sons, all of whom were held captive overnight in the Mott home in Mundelein.

Under threats of death, two of the bandits took Mott from his home to the bank where they forced him to open the vaults. Shutting him up in the vault they escaped in an automobile. Two others of the bandit quartet remained on guard over Mrs. Mott and the three sons, Paul, 21; Neal, 19, and William, 14. The bandits in the bank telephoned the two at the Mott home that the job was over and were joined by them in the flight.

The Mott's had just finished dinner last night when the door bell rang. Paul Mott answered it and shouted to the other members of the family:

"Run! bandits!"

His warning was too late. The bandits pushed him into the house and made the entire family prisoners.

Cook Midnight Meal.

About midnight the gang leader and another bandit went to the kitchen, cooked bacon, eggs and coffee, and served the Motts as well as themselves and their confederates. Later, one of the bandits bathed and took a shave, using Mott's razor. Another bandit spent part of the time in an easy chair, his feet on a table, reading a book.

At 8:15 the bandit leader gave his orders for the robbery. Two of the gunmen were instructed to keep guard over Mrs. Mott and her sons. The leader and a pal took Mott with them and drove to the bank.

With a gun poking him, Mott admitted the robbers to the bank, which is six blocks from his home. Mott said the bandits seemed to know when the time locks would open. They released at 8:30 o'clock, and one of the bandits compelled Mott to open the money box. The robbery was over in five minutes, and the bandits raced away.

Council Provides For Compensation

Measure Will Check Payment Of Salary And Compensation At Same Time

Council convened in the city building today and passed a resolution relating to the absence of employes from municipal duties. Those ill but not entitled to workmen's compensation can draw salary if they are not absent more than seven days a month or more than 30 days a year. Persons incapacitated for service shall be entitled to salary for the first 30 days of absence, less the amount of compensation during that period. The resolution follows:

Resolved that, hereafter no salaried employe of the city shall be continued on the payroll when he or she has been absent from duty on account of sickness or injury for which he or she is not entitled to workmen's compensation for more than seven days in any month or for more than 30 days in any year. The superintendent of the respective departments shall be the final judge and arbiter of all matters of the amount of salary payable to the employe in the department and if the superintendent of the department is not satisfied that the illness in any instance is of a nature to justify his or her absence from duty, the superintendent may refuse to approve payment of salary to the member during his or her absence or any part thereof; and

Be it further resolved that, when any salaried employe is injured while on duty so as to incapacitate him or her for service, he or she shall be entitled to receive his salary for the first 30 days of absence from duty, less the amount of workmen's compensation during that time; but after 30 days absence from duty his or her salary shall cease until his or her return to duty.

Better Mail Boxes Being Advocated

In connection with its campaign against highway billboards, the Grange is agitating the subject of more attractive mail boxes along Rural Free Delivery roufes. The subject is being discussed in Lawrence county Grange meetings and "model boxes" are being set up. One has only to ride along country roads to note how little attention is paid to R. F. D. boxes. Many of them are dilapidated and the names have been almost obliterated.

School Inspector Talks On Eyesight

Tells Doctors That 600 Children In Public Schools Have Defective Eyesight

Six hundred school children in New Castle have defective eyesight, Dr. Mary J. Baker, school health inspector told the Lawrence County Medical Society at the meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. library Thursday evening.

The county physicians, on hearing this statement made immediate preparations to assist the work among children with defective eyes by referring the matter to the clinic committee of which Dr. J. D. Crawford is chairman.

The discussion on needs of city school children was precipitated by a report of Dr. T. M. Shaffer, a member of the Lyons Club, which has done considerable work among children and older people with poor eyesight. Dr. Shaffer declared the funds of the Lyons have been exhausted and appealed to the medical men for aid in carrying on the work.

It was at this point that Dr. Baker, herself familiar with the needs of the youth of the city, declared that 600 children in here are with defective eyesight and cannot afford to care for them. She appealed to the society to suggest a way to alleviate the condition among the children.

Dr. C. A. Reed, president of the society presided. It was announced that during the month of March the average bacteria content of milk inspected by the society in this county was 620 per c. c.

The medical men discussed the One Board bill which is now before the state legislature. The measure concerns the medical profession.

Tailored Suits For Women On Easter Day Will Be Given Play

Motif Of Easter Ensemble Will Be Strictly Feminine Is Report

Long Dresses Have Passed Experimental Stage And Are Still New

By CLAIRE EBHARDT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—Miss Pennsylvania, 1931, in common with her 47 other sisters throughout the nation, pirouetted before a full-length mirror today in a dress-rehearsal for Easter.

From the mirror—a mirror of fashion for mademoiselle and madam—she learned:

Feminity Returns.

Although the Easter mode is tailored, it is not severely so. Rather, it is most casual and very, very feminine. In fact, fashions most nearly approximate the feminine this year than at any time since the war.

The long dresses of last year have passed through the experimental stages of the extremely high waist and awkwardly long skirt, and settled down to lovely natural lines.

The motif of the Easter ensemble will be feminity. It is expressed in nearly moulded lines of coat and dress, snug shoulders and hips and natural waistline. In the pursuit of feminity, however, Miss 1931 has not gone to the extremes of the '90s when shackled necks, high stiff collars, tightly corseted waists and heavily lined, dragging skirts prevailed.

Startling contradictions and contrasts—in color and material combinations—feature the 1931 fashions. For instance, shiny soft-crushed patent leather belts will be used with chiffon and lace for evening wear. Formal afternoon dresses are relieved with the appearance of white pique. Everything has a touch or trim of white.

Lacy Styles Are New.

Afternoon and evening dresses have light tops and dark bottoms. The style evoultion during the last year has been from a lacy touch at neck and sleeves, to lacy bodices and blouses with darker substantial skirts.

The frills and furbelows of 1930 have given way to simple lines, with a reasonable restraint. Intricate cutting produces simple effects. Long dresses require short jackets or wraps. Dresses are ankle length for evening, mid-calf for street and slightly shorter for sports.

It will not be a sleeveless summer, even in sports wear. Cap or capelet sleeves will be seen. The evening decolletage is extremely low, to the waist in back, or extremely high.

Neutral jewelry, with pearls having a renaissance, is worn with the highly colored new costumes.

Sailor Hats Return.

In the field of the chapeaux, a further retreat from the hairline is noted with very little space between the hat and head. Rough straws and crocheted biscas are in vogue, turbans are popular while the trotteur or tailored suit is bringing back a modified sailor hat.

The new fur-less and collar-less coats bear a remarkable resemblance to dresses. A silk scarf replaces the collar. When fur is omitted at the neck, there is a bracelet cuff near the elbow.

Ends Of Earth To Be Joined Outside Paris

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 3.—A Thibetan theater. Dancing girls from the royal ballet of Cambodia. A Malgache castle. A replica of Mount Vernon. An African mosque. A Senegalese village. Madagascar singers, chanting spirituals and folksongs of the "great red island." A Buddhist temple. Moroccan souhks. A Catholic colonial chapel, in which mass will be sung every day. A Tunisan workshop. An Indo-Chinese restaurant.

These are just a few of the many picturesque features of the International Overseas Exposition which will be inaugurated here in April. Situated in the Bois de Vincennes, just outside Paris, the exposition will visualize in striking fashion how the far-away population of "Greater France" live, move and have their being. It will also reveal how these peoples, of divergent creeds and colors, of various climes and cultures are climbing the long ladder of civilization under the expert guidance of French—and other—Colonizers.

For the Exposition is not exclusively French. The United States will be represented by Panama, Alaska, the Philippines, Guam and others. Great Britain will be represented. Also Portugal, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Denmark.

It will be a moving and colorful spectacle. A collection of contrasts. Bits of Asia, Africa, Australasia and America are being transported to Paris, the cosmopolitan center of the world, to form a distinctive "colonial cosmos." Three thousand natives will be brought from their many far distant homes to give an authentic local atmosphere and "color" to the ensemble.

"Make it colonial. Make it native" . . . Such was the order of Marshal Hubert Lyautey, commissioner general of the Exposition. And his order is being obeyed to the letter. Apart from the Metropolitan section, which will be distinctly French, and for the Foreign sections, where every nation is mistress of her own acts, the exposition will be thoroughly native. Native art and native architecture; native modes of transport. Native soldiers ,arrayed in their flamboyant, mulicolored uniforms will mount guard at sundown and every night a picturesque ceremony will take place before the monument erected to the colonial troops who died in the World War.

There will be native villages with native palaces, native theaters, native restaurants. Native artists with a trained sense of color, proportion and design, will transform crude raw material into finished objects of exquisite beauty in their native workshops. Native children will go to a typical colonial school. A series of colonial Olympic Games will be staged, with native athletes as the only participants. There will be native dancers, musicians, cafes and even native playgrounds for black, white and yellow children.

Phileas Fogg, Jues Verne's delightful character, circled the globe in eighty days, but Phileas Fogg III can perform a similar feat in eighty minutes by visiting the French Overseas Exposition. He will be able to eat rice from Indo-China, oranges from Syria, codfish from St. Pierre and Miquelon. He will be able to hear funeral dirges from Madagascar, love songs from Cambodia, and lullabies from Guadaloupe. He will be able to witness a Senegalese baptism, a Pondicherry betrothal and a Moroccan wedding.

Veteran Dies Of Starvation While Waiting For Bonus

Pittsburgh War Veteran Dies Of Starvation And Exposure As Check Arrives

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—The impish satyr that lurks in nature giving rise to "crossed-circumstances" today claimed another victim.

When Victor Wavinski, 39, a World War veteran and former U. S. Marine, found himself reduced to his last penny, after waiting for his bonus check from the government, he set out to find aid in the "Hill" district. He failed in his quest.

Construct Studio Like Covered Bridge

(International News Service)

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark., April 3.—A unique studio, intended as a rendezvous for writers and artists, is nearing completion.

The studio, which is built in the form of an old fashioned covered bridge, is 150 feet long and spans a deep canyon in the Ozark hills.

The studio proper will be 19 feet wide and 60 feet long. While it consists of one large room it can be divided into several compartments by the use of curtains.

Under the studio will be other rooms—shower baths, kitchenettes and storage rooms.

Nearby will be constructed a number of small rustic cabins extending out over the canyon.

The bridge and cabins will be dedicated to artists and writers of America.

"Gang influence" and "gang dominion" are such awkward terms. Why not gangrene?

Beauty and Brains

Here is a collegiate queen who lays claim to brains as well as beauty. She is Miss Evelyn Carter, of Parsons, Kansas. Selected by the student body of Baker University, Baldwin City, Kansas, as the most talented, the most popular and the most beautiful, on the campus.

Chinese Workers "Lay Down" On Job

(International News Service)

PEKING, April 3.—When Chinese railway workers "lay down" on the job, they do so literally. The management of the Peking Mukden Railway dismissed some old employes who were dissatisfied with the bonus paid. Thereupon a group of them stretched across the main tracks, vowing that they would permit the Number Three Express to run over their bodies unless their demands were met.

Number Three arrived on the scene and was delayed several minutes while the matter was debated at headquarters. A promise was given to consider the claims of the men and then only was the express permitted to go on.

Pantages Happy Over New Trial

Alexander Pantages, Millionaire Theatre Man Will Fight Charges

ATTORNEYS WILL BRING NEW FACTS

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, convicted of assaulting a 17-year-old dancer, Eunice Pringle, today looked forward optimistically to the new trial, granted by the state supreme court here yesterday.

When informed of the decision, Pantages reiterated his innocence and stated his lawyers would introduce evidence to prove it conclusively.

The decision of the supreme court, reached by a verdict of 5 to 2, held that the prosecution misconduct objected to by Pantages' attorneys "warrants the conclusion that the defendant was not lawfully convicted."

Boy Scout News

SEA SCOUTERS BUSY

Much activity is in progress among the Boy Scouts of Croton Troop 6, sponsored by the Croton M. E. church. The regular troop meeting will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the church. A very interesting program has been prepared.

A Sea Scout patrol is being organized and a meeting was held only recently at the home of First Mate West. Skipper George McCracken was in charge of the ship's program. Men who are preparing to join the crew are Glenn Peebles, Frank Crisci, Charles Polen, Harold Booth, David Harris, Walter Shuler, Harold Grossman, Bus Wimer and Herbert Rodgers. A sea scout meeting will be held after the regular troop program on Tuesday night.

A paper called "The Eagle" the troop's publication, is being published two times a month by Editor Herbert Rodgers, Assistant Editor Charles Polen and Business Manager Bus Wimer.

NEW PAMPHLETS OUT

Boy Scout headquarters announce that the following new service library pamphlets are in the council office for reference by scouters:

Meeting Rooms for Troop and Patrol"—76 pages of suggestions as to improving your troop and patrol meeting places, diagrams, sketches and whatnots.

"The Scoutmaster's First Six Weeks"—by Mr. Walsh also. Mighty good information for new scoutmasters.

It is estimated that more than $40,000,0000 are lost every year in the United States because of poor quality milk and cream.

Afternoon dresses are now being shown with ruffled silk petticoats.

BEES NEED FOOD NOW FOR BROOD REARING

This is feeding time for the keeper of the bees. Large quantities of food are needed in the rearing of young bees during the spring months. If a colony of 50,000 bees is reared 50 pounds of honey will be required for food alone.

Many of the largest and finest colonies of bees die each spring. Because of their size and the thousands of young bees to be fed each day, their supply of food is consumed rapidly, often before sufficient nectar can be gathered from the spring blooms. Such colonies, along with many weaker ones, have gone into winter quarters short of food. The supply of food fails generally in March, April, and May when the bees are most actively engaged in raising brood. During this period the careful bee-keeper will check each hive to see that 2 or 3 full frames of honey are present.

Sugar syrup is the most desirable food for spring feeding. It is made by dissolving one and one-half parts of white granulated sugar in one part of hot water. After the syrup has cooled to room temperature it can be fed by using friction top pails or fruit jars with holes punched in the tops. Instruction on how to prepare and use these feeders can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Association Office.

POTATO GROWERS PLAN BIG STATE EXPOSITION

Pennsylvania Potato Growers are looking forward to attending the second big exposition staged by the state association. The event will be held at the Pennsylvania State College, August 24 to 26.

Production, marketing, and consumption principles and practices will be presented in the program of education talks, demonstrations, and exhibits. Plans for the exposition call for the appearance of several national economic and educational leaders on the speaking program.

Cooperating with the growers in the educational activities of the exposition, Dr. C. F. Noll, college farm superintendent, will set aside a field for demonstration, including plowing, spraying, and digging. Observations on general cultural practices will be made in the college potato field.

FEED WEAKENED TREES TO SAVE FRUIT BUDS

Injured by the drouth last year, many Lawrence County orchards did not make the usual vigorous vegetative growth. Consequently, many of the fruit buds are in a weakened condition this spring.

To help these buds to stick to the branches during and following the blossoming period fertilizer must be applied. The use of a fertilizer high in quickly available nitrogen is advisable.

When sulphate of ammonia is used, it should be applied some time before the trees come into leaf and blossom. If nitrate of soda is used the application may be made a few days later than the ammonia sulphate.

Some loss of nitrate must be expected during the early spring rains. The importance of having food material ready for the trees when they start growth cannot be over emphasize this year, however, because of the weakened condition of the trees.

Mature trees in sod and in good bearing should receive 10 pounds each of either of the fertilizers named. Younger trees should receive proportionate amounts.

DEEP TILLAGE IS NOT OF PRACTICAL VALUE

Breaking the subsoil may be profitable with special soils and under certain conditions. Generally, however, the practice cannot be economically applied in Pennsylvania.

In the past, many tests were conducted with various impliments and with explosives. Usually the results were negative. Where the land is tile-drained or is underlaid at a relatively shallow depth by porous strata, breaking the subsoil when the land is dry may make drainage more satisfactory. Otherwise, little seems to have been accomplished.

Five potato fields where a part had been deep tilled the previous fall were noted last year. In three cases no difference in top growth or yield was observed. In two instances there was an apparent loss of 10 to 24 bushels an acre from the extra tillage operation. The crop apparently was no better able to withstand the drouth than where normal preparation was given.

On only one field where deep tillage was practiced did the yield exceed 400 bushels an acre. This was on a piece of tile-drained swamp land last year.

TREAT SEED AND SOIL TO STOP DAMPING OFF

In many instances damping off destroys several plantings of seed, thus causing loss and inconvenience to the grower. This loss can be largely avoided if growers planting seed in unsterilized soil will use control measures recommended by State College plant pathologists.

Soaking tomato seed for one hour in a solution made by dissolving two ounces of bludstone in a gallon of water has been found effective in checking damping off.

For the other crops corrosive sublimate solution or copper carbonate solution may be used as seed treatment. One pint of solution may be used as seed treatment.

One pint of solution to each square food of seedbed is applied after the seed is sown but before it is covered. The corrosive sublimate solution is made by dissolving one ounce of mercuric chloride powder in 15 gallons of water. For the copper carbonate solution one and one-half ounces of powder is mixed in one gallon of water.

When the treatment is made in the seedbed the seeds should next be covered and watered thoroughly. If damping off develops after the plants are up, it can be checked by applying corrosive sublimate or copper carbonate solution to the soil at the base of the seedlings. Care should be exercised, so that the solution does not get on the green leaves.

PREPARE LAMB CROPS NOW FOR FALL MARKETS

Now is the time when the alert flock-master is getting his lamb crop ready for the fall market.

"Do not forget that the terminal markets will pay from $1.00 to $1.50 more for the docked and castrated lamb than for the untrimmed lamb. These lambs should be trimmed when they are from 1 to 3 weeks old.

Indications are that the lamb crop will be increased again this fall. This will mean a heavy discount for buck lambs. Now is the time to get the lamb crop ready to be market toppers later.

Shepherds tim lambs for the following reasons: (1) The buck lamb does not take on flesh as readily as the wether lamb. (2) Buck lambs develop heavy heads and shoulders instead of good loins and legs. (3) The untrimmed lamb becomes the sire of a number of early lambs next spring that arrive before the average farmer is prepared to care for them. (4) The buck lamb disturbs the entire flock during the latter part of the season.

Strange Coincidence With Senator Harris Is Brought To Light

Bought Bennett's Book And Paper Telling Of Death Of Author At Same Time

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 3.—James Francis Burke, counsellor for the Republican National Committee, paid a flying visit to Pennsylvania's state capital.

Here, he met Senator William J. Harris, Allegheny county, and complimented the senator on his youthful appearance. The two discussed youth and ways of retaining it. Burke mentioned he had read a book of Arnold Bennett's about "retaining youth" and recommended it to the Allegheny solon.

The secretary returned shortly afterward. He had the book and a newspaper.

"Arnold Bennett, Noted Author, is Dead."

VENTURA, Calif., April 3.—If Walter E. Davidson, 22-year-old amateur bandit, ever attempts another hold-up he'll probably look twice before he locks his victim up. Davidson held up B. V. Correct this sentence: "No matter how important he is," said the dry official; "I'm going to prosecute him."

Ellwood Light Plan Shown To Legislators By Manager Monroe

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 3.—Members of the House Committee investigating the Public Utilities companies were given a revelation in municipal management of light plants Thursday when Lowell W. Monroe, borough manager of Ellwood City testified, giving the capital set-up, the gross cost and net earnings of the Ellwood plant.

So interested was the committee in the testimony that when Mr. Monroe closed, Morris L. Cooke, Valuation Engineer sitting on the committee as an observer for the governor said, "this is a most unusual situation. I would like Mr. Monroe to furnish me with a statement of the financial set-up of this plant for my own use. Later the committee arranged to have Mr. Monrie's financial statement prepared in copies for each member of the committee.

Mr. Monroe testified that the borough of Ellwood City did not manufacture its own power, that it bought it from the Pennsylvania Power Company and distributed it to the citizens and small stores of the borough.

The borough charges its consumers 6 cents per kilowatt, with a discount of one cent per kilowatt for prompt payment. On this five cent net rate, Mr. Monroe stated the borough earns net each year, what amounts to about 7 mills in taxation. In other words, if the current were purchased from a private company by the consumer, the taxes of the Ellwood citizens would be about seven mills higher. In addition, no charge is made for current used in traffic lights and in the city buildings, which is an additional aid of no small importance.

At the present time the borough has about $158,000 in its treasury as the result of light earnings, Mr. Monroe said, which is being held as a reserve for improvements and repairs.s

"What is your bonded indebtedness" asked Representative Ellwood J. Turner, a member of the committee.

"There is no indebtedness of any kind against the plant" replied Mr. Monroe. "The plant was paid for years ago, and our net earnings now go to pay for current repairs, and extensions as they are needed. Each year we pay off borough projects from money earned by the borough distribution plant, holding back a certain amount for emergency uses in the lighting plant that may arise."

As Mr. Monroe finished, there was considerable comment among the committee members over the unusual situation in Ellwood City and the financial set-up quoted by Mr. Monroe will be made a permanent exhibit in the committee's files, with each member getting a copy of it.

Hoover Dam Engineers Seek Half Holidays

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 3.—The men who worked out the complicated engineering plans on which the Hoover dam, the greatest project of its kind, is being built, want the same privileges as other government workers.

This was revealed here recently when Raymond F. Walter, chief engineer for the reclamation bureau, which employs 170 persons in its Denver offices at present, wrote to United States Commissioner Dr. Elwood Meade protesting the recent action of congress in granting Saturday half-holidays to all government employes except field workers in the interior department.

Denver is particularly affected by the asserted discrimination as more government employes reside here than in any other city except Washington, D. C.

Interior department employes here also fear that they will lose the privileges they enjoyed under former regulations, which allowed them Saturday half-holidays during June, July, August and September.

An executive order from President Hoover is said to be the only thing that can save interior department field employes their Saturday half-holiday until the convening of the next congress.

Minor Racketeers Invade Needy Apple-Sellers Field

By HARRY MONTGOMERY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 3.—As the apple season wanes and the supply of the classic fruit dwindles somewhat more rapidly than the number of unemployed, New York members of the out-of-work class now are beginning to invade other branches of marketing.

There are just as many unlicensed men selling goods on the streets now as there were at the height of the apple-selling campaign of the unemployed. Perhaps there are more. Now, however, the apple sellers are in the minority.

One man sells shoe laces. They go at three pairs for a nickel. Another has chocolate bars of all sizes from the two-for-five bar to the large half pound blocks. The latter are sold for ten cents.

At the next stand, just a few feet away—there are a dozen salesmen to almost any downtown block in New York—a man sells razor blades at a quarter a dozen. The next salesman has collar bottons.

Fruits other than apples also are to be had from the stands. Tangerines, pears, grapes, and oranges are sold by poorly dressed men in almost every block. Many different kinds of nuts comprise the stock of hundreds of these men who owe their jobs to the unemployed situation.

For it is the clamor of the unemployed for jobs which has caused the city to adopt its policy of laxity in enforcing city ordinances requiring that such street salesmen have licenses. As a result the city is flooded with these otherwise unemployed men who have supplanted, to a great extent, the licensed street vendor with his wagon or push cart.

Among this great new army of street salesmen however, are several regiments of a minor type of racketeer. They are men who, even in normal times, conduct business similar to those they run today. Ordinarily they are hunted by police, and they work the streets only by keeping one eye peeled sharply for approaching patrolmen.

Now they are given practically free reign. It is difficult to spot them among the real unemployed, and so they go on, their selling being a borderline case between racketeering and apple selling. They make much money at the game, far more than most of them could make otherwise. Business is particularly good with them now as they capitalize on the business depression.

Generally they sell novelties. Games, toys, trick household devices, patent medicines, stain removers, fabulous cheap neckties or handkerchiefs, and similar articles. There seems to be no limit to the variety of goods these men procure to sell. And the majority of those who buy them believe they are helping unemployed men.

Even among the apple sellers it is difficult to tell when your salesman needs the money to support a family and when he is simply adding to an already large bank account by selling apples. With people at a loss to distinguish between the two types, apple selling and kindred street businesses continue with the racket men sharing profits usually meant for the unemployed alone.

It is certain that the street salesmen will be on the sidewalks of New York in the garb of unemployed family heads long after the apple season is over. Unless people stop using shoe laces and cease to eat candy and fruit the men will be marketing their goods at least until the end of the business depression, and perhaps longer.

47. Benedict Arnold—Arnold's Raid On New London

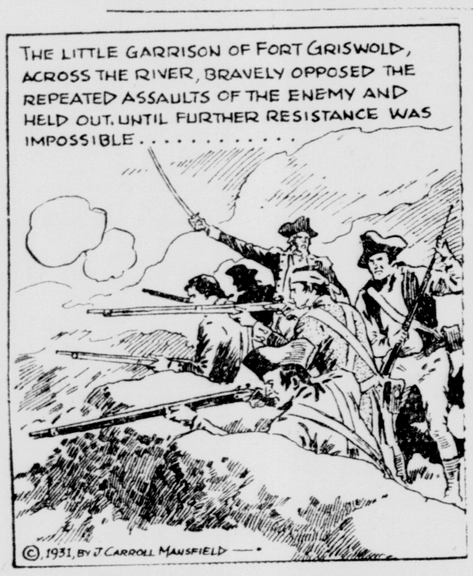

IN THE AUTUMN OF 1781, WHILE WASHINGTON WAS TIGHTENING HIS RING OF STEEL AROUND CORNWALLIS AT YORKTOWN, CLINTON SENT ARNOLD BY SEA WITH 2000 REDCOATS TO RAID NEW LONDON, CONNECTICUT, IN THE HOPE OF DRAWING WASHINGTON AWAY FROM VIRGINIA.....

CONNECTICUT WAS ARNOLD'S NATIVE STATE, BUT THE TRAITOR, BITTER AND VINDICTIVE, SHOWED NEW LONDON NO MERCY. AFTER PLUNDERING THE WAREHOUSES, THE RAIDERS APPLIED THE TORCH TO A LARGE PART OF THE TOWN AND A DOZEN SHIPS LYING IN THE RIVER.—

THE LITTLE GARRISON OF FORT GRISWOLD, ACROSS THE RIVER, BRAVELY OPPOSED THE REPEATED ASSAULTS OF THE ENEMY AND HELD OUT UNTIL FURTHER RESISTANCE WAS IMPOSSIBLE.....

© 1931, BY J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHEN THE REDCOATS FINALLY BURST INTO THE FORT, THEY BAYONETTED A HUNDRED OF THE DEFENDERS, INCLUDING THE COMMANDANT, COLONEL LEDYARD, IN COLD BLOOD. THEN ARNOLD LOADED HIS SHIPS WITH THE SPOILS OF THE RAID AND SAILED BACK TO NEW YORK.

Sharkey Plans Fight In June

Carnera, Loughran, Campolo And Walker Mentioned

TO STAGE BOUT IN BROOKLYN

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 3.—The heavyweight boxing situation was boiling today with the announcement that Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, will make his next big fight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on June 3 under the promotion of James J. Johnston.

Sharkey's opponent, according to Johnston, will be chosen from Primo Carnera, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker or Victorio Campolo. Final selection will not be made until April 15.

This announcement is Sharkey's opening gun in his battle to gain nation wide recognition over Max Schmeling, to whom he lost on a foul here last summer, as heavyweight champion. The winner of the June fight here undoubtedly will be recognized as champion by the New York state athletic commission, which stripped Schmeling of his crown because of his refusal to meet Sharkey again.

Sailor Jack already holds a decision over W. L. (Young) Stribling, slated to fight Schmeling in June in a middle western city. That many fight fans now regard the Boston Tar as the uncrowned champion was made evident during Schmeling's recent unsuccessful tour of the south and southwest, when spectators at the German's exhibition bouts openly jeered him for ducking Sharkey.

Harvard Tradition Yields To Women

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3.—For 195 years, the yards and dormitories of Fair Harvard have re-echoed the long "r's" which made the university famous, in high lyric tenor and deep booming bass. It was a sanctuary of bachelors.

And now, tradition is shattered, a new note is added and soprano tones will ring throughout the campus.

For the dormitory doors will be thrown open to house young women students at the summer school this summer, it was announced by university officials.

Women, of course, have always had free access to the dormitory buildings—under the eye of proper persons—but the radical change is that young women will now live there. The move was made necessary by the plan to renovate the freshmen dormitories along the Charles river during the summer, leaving Harvard without quarters for the young women of the summer school.

The Hawks amazed all the alleged experts by smothering Toronto and the New York Rangers in the play-offs, just as they amazed them by getting into the play-offs at all.

Life Of Knute Rockne — 2nd Instalment — By R. J. Scott

By W. R. WALTON
Written for Central Press

ROCKNE, like all red-blooded American boys, had his athletic heroes. A thorough-going Chicagoan, his baseball idols included Frank Chance, the "Peerless Leader" of the Chicago Cubs; Big Ed Walsh, then the Chicago White Sox star pitcher, but probably most of all, Walter Eckersall, the famous "Eckie" who sprang from Chicago high school football stardom to brilliance on the Big Ten gridiron.

The quick-witted, nimble play of the famous University of Chicago quarterback stirred the admiration of the youthful Knute. Here was genius, brain triumphing over brawn. Being physically small himself, Rockne was thrilled watching Eckie outsmart the brawny boys of opposing elevens. Football must be a game for smart fellows, as well as beefy ones, Knute figured.

* * *

CAME ROCKNE'S late teens and a decision to obtain a college education. He rather leaned toward the University of Illinois, the big state school down in Champagne. But two of Rock's friends were planning to go to the University of Notre Dame, a small school somewhere in Indiana. They wanted Knute to go along.

It was a hard decision for Rockne to make. Most boys would have gone on to the big school. But not Rockne. Friends were friends, and he decided to stick with his pals. He borowed $45 and took the train for South Bend.

At Notre Dame Rockne plunged into the study of chemistry. It was his ambition to become proficient in this science and he determined to know all there was about it. Though he had to work his way through school, Rock found time for athletics. He came out for football.

Husband Wanted; May Be Any Age

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Calif., April 3.—In a letter to City Manager R. V. Orbison, Winifred M. McCarthy, 20 year old English girl expressed desire for an ideal husband—but stated that his age wouldn't make any difference.

"I hope you will pardon me, but I thought you might help me find a husband," she wrote, "I am 20 years old, educated and nice looking. I want a husband who is kind, generous and good-tempered, but would not be particular about his age. All correspondents will be treated as confidential."

The girl's address was on file at the City Hall here.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The lonely pedestrain in the highways of Delaware must, when night overtakes him, halt long enough to light a lantern, or hoist a white handkerchief or other signal, as a warning to incoming motorists.

By a law passed in both houses of the Delaware Legislature last week, a pedestrain displaying no signals after sundown is in the same category as a ship running without lights.

Road Builders Must Pay Fair Labor Salary

Colorado Rules That Labor Must Not Be Exploited

By RICHARD RANDOLPH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DENVER, Col. April 3—Labor is to be benefitted, not exploited, by the vast highway construction program undertaken by the state of Colorado, which calls for the expenditure of more than $10,000,000 of state and federal funds during 1931.

A minimum wage of $4 per day has been set by the state and a plan has been worked out whereby contractors will be compelled to adhere to this rate.

Immense construction programs were pushed through the recent session of Congress as a means of aiding the unemployment situation. The state of Colorado was able to match every cent of available federal highway appropriations this year.

Complaints that a highway contractor was paying as low as $1.50 per day, which is not a living wage in this section, reached the ears of State Highway Engineer Charles D. Vail and Gov. William H. Adams. With the co-operation of the state industrial commission and the United States bureau of public roads a plan was worked out which will virtually compel contractors to pay the $4 minimum and urge the payment of 50 cents per hour.

All who seek contracts for the highway building projects will be forced to post minimum wage scales with the state industrial commission, as provided for by Colorado law. Contractors who pay a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour will have the best chance of getting the contract. If the contractor is sufficiently low and also has a lower wage scale, an amount will be added to the bid to provide for a wage scale of 50 cents per hour.

"Wages below $4 for an eight-hour day defeat the purpose for which the federal government made an appropriation for road building situation," Engineer Vail explained. "Road building work is seasonal and $4 a day is low enough for any laborer to receive."

The plan has been approved by the federal bureau of public roads, which provides most of the money being spent on Colorado's highway budget this year.

You're the JUDGE

The Decision

The judges reasoned thus:

The essence of the agreement was that the mill owners should have good security before they gave up the business. Good security, therefore, was a condition that must precede the consummation of the contract, and until that was satisfied it could not be said that the young man had fulfilled all the stipulations.

Former Police Sergeant Hurt

Fortunately Auto Mishap Injuries Are Apparently Of A Minor Character

THREE OTHERS ARE ALSO IN ACCIDENTS

Eugene Buckley, 514 West North street, former sergeant of the police department, was injured Thursday afternoon, as he was crossing from the east to the west side of North Jefferson street at Falls street, when struck and knocked to the street by the car of James R. Cypher, New Castle R. D. No. 2.

He was immediately removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital in the car of W. P. Fuldaner of Cleveland, O., where it was found that he had escaped serious injury. He was found to be suffering from a bruised left hip and the shock. He was able to be removed to his home this morning.

According to the report of Mr. Cypher, he was enroute north on Jefferson street, when Mr. Buckley stepped from the curb and from the rear of a machine that was parked at the east side of the street, directly in front of Mr. Cypher's car. Mr. Cypher tried to avoid him, but Mr. Buckley kept on across the street, and he was struck and knocked to the street. He was picked up by witnesses and rushed to the hospital.

William J. Gebhart of New Castle R. D. No. 8 reported Friday that he was enroute north on Moravia street at West Long avenue, as the car of W. G. Swisher of R. D. 7 enroute north on Moravia street made a left hand turn into a service station, directly in front of the Gebhart car. The Swisher machine hit the Gebhart car, doing damage to both machines.

Mrs. William Gebhart and Peter Gebhart who were in the Gebhart machine both sustained injuries, the former being hurt in the ribs and left side and the latter sustaining a cut on the left temple and having his left arm injured.

Mrs. Cora B. Phillips, 510 Young street, was backing into Moody avenue from North Mercer street, when a small boy about 12 years of age by the name of Ellison and a resident of North Mercer street, started across Moody avenue on a coaster wagon from the south to the north side of the street. The machine struck but did not knock him to the pavement. He was taken to his home. He was apparently uninjured and no physician was called.

Joseph McCormick, Slippery Rock R. D. No. 3, was enroute west on West Grant street at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing. He was about 50 feet away when he noticed the guard gates were down. He applied the brakes, but he did not get stopped at once and he was right up against the northeast guard gates when he feared that there might be a train coming and he kept on across. His machine broke off both guard gates.

N. J. Fiello had his car parked on Mahoning avenue in reverse gear last night while visiting his brother and while he was in his brother's home, a boy started the machine, which went backwards and came to a stop only when the car had struck and caved in the side of the house at 303 Mahoning avenue. The car was damaged some. Detective John Young and Officer John Moore investigated the case and finally apprehended Charles Watkins, aged 9, a colored boy residing at 319 Preston avenue, who admitted that he had started the car. He was ordered in before the mayor this morning and after being advised to keep away from the police department in the future, was discharged.

Diplomatic Puzzle

Although he has held such posts as Foreign Minister for Czechoslovakia and signed international agreements involving as much as $66,000,000, Dr. Charles Porgler, above, is looked upon as a "diplomat without a country." His case has been placed before an international court to decide what country he belongs to, if any.

Meeting House 231 Years Old Still In Use

(International News Service)

JENKINTOWN, Pa., April 3.—Quaintly preserving its original atmosphere of simplicity and strength amidst the ever-changing modern city, the Abington Friends Meeting house still stands, almost two and a half centuries after its erection.

The meeting house, now used as a home for the caretaker of an estate, was built in 1700, three years after John Barnes donated 10 acres of land and 112 pounds, 10 shillings for the construction and maintenance of a meeting and a schoolhouse.

The present east end of the building was added in 1787 and ten years later the west end was torn down and remodelled.

Vermont Determined To Solve Strange "Mystery Woman" Case

(International News Service)

MONTPELLIER Vt. April 3.—Under personal leadership of Attorney General Lawrence Jones, state and county authorities have launched with renewed vigor investigation into the strange case of "Vermont's mystery woman" which has baffled authorities for two years.

Complete mystery surrounds the finding of the body of an unidentified girl in a Chester pasture in August, 1929. An empty chloroform bottle and a "suicide note" found near the body are the only clues presented authorities toward solution of the mystery.

Several times the mystery was believed solved only to drop back into the pages of "Vermont's unsolved cases."

The entire population of the Green Mountain State has become aroused over the case and the apparent failure of authorities to solve the mystery.

Attorney General Jones has announced he will take personal charge of the case and has ordered State's Attorneys Lawrence Edgerton and Ernest W. Gibson of Windsor and Windham counties and those investigating the case to spare no expense to bring about a solution of the mystery.

Offer of a $500 reward has been renewed by authorities to those who could shed any light on the case.

Following an autopsy by a medical examiner which revealed that the girl was murdered and that the murderer has used chloroform in accomplishing his crime' authorities began their investigations which for two years have brought no gainful results.

Months passed after the autopsy and a sudden turn came in the case when the body of the woman was identified by Charles J. Packard as that of his first wife, Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard. The dead Mrs. Packard, however, reappeared in Manchester, N. H., and later appeared on teh scene.

In the meantime, Packard had married a second wife. The Chester farm death once more was again shrouded in mystery.

After nearly two years, the case was again brought to the front when a 19-year-old Bellows Falls girl told investigators a startling story that she knew the "mystery woman" and that she lived in Laconia.

According to the girl's story, she and the "mystery woman" met at a party in Grafton and accept the invitation of two men to be taken home in their automobile. At Chester, she said, one of the men administered an overdose of chloroform to her girl companion. The body was placed in a pasture with the empty choloform bottle and "suicide note" near the body.

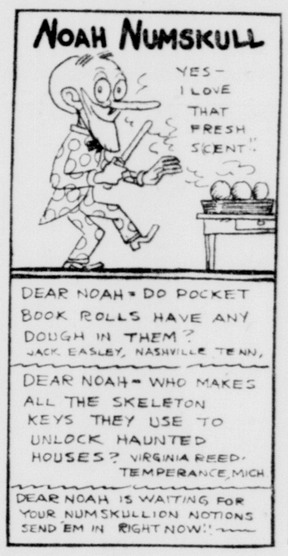

Two men were questioned by the authorities in connection with the case but the girl's story was punctured when no record of the name given authorities of the victim could be found in Laconia or nearby cities. Finally, the girl admitted she had been "dreaming."

Pair Held On Holdup Charge

Wealthy San Antonio, Texas Man Reports Being Held Up For $50,000

PAIR NABBED BY LAREDO POLICE

(International News Service)

LAREDO, Tex., April 3—A preliminary trial is scheduled today for a man who gave his name as Herbert Murphy, but whom police claim is C. C. Julian, Los Angeles and Oklahoma oil man, who is charged with attempting to rob L. S. Boling, wealthy San Antonio operator of $50,000.

The suspected man and C. C. Boren, who claimed to be his secretary, were jailed yesterday after their arrest in a hotel lobby as they were preparing to leave with police.

According to police, Boling accused the two men of entering his room in a hotel here and at the point of a gun demanding $50,000.

He refused. Boling told police and was forced to accompany the men down the elevator to the lobby. There 'Murphy" and Boren were arrested by a policeman attracted by their peculiar actions.

Boling, police claimed, revealed his companion's identity as the same C. C. Julian, who once headed the $100,000, Julian Petroleum Corporation whose collapse caused a series of court trials and scandals in Los Angeles. Several letters in the pockets of "Murphy" police said, were addressed to C. C. Julian.

TRUCKMAN DENIES DOPE KNOWLEDGE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 3.— New arrests were expected today following a raid on a tiny Greenwich Village express office near the waterfront, which revealed a cache of 2,060 pounds of opium, valued at $1,000,000.

Authorities said the little office was the depot for nation-wide distribution of narcotics.

Cases of opium, imported from Turkey or France, were found in the office. They had been covered by furs, which concealed the smell of the narcotics.

Abraham Goodman, the only man found at the express office, said he was a poor but honest truckman and knew nothing about the opium. He was to be arraigned today.

Many Leaves Needed For Average Apple

AMHERST, Mass., April 3.—From 50 to 70 leaves are required to produce the average apple of good quality.

This was shown by experiments conducted by the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Some summer or early varieties require only 30 to 40 leaves, it was found.

Fokker Denies That "Structural Fault" Caused Plane Crash

(International News Service)

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kans., April 3.—Anthony Fokker, designer of the Transcontinental and Western Air Express plane that crashed near here Tuesday bringing death to Knute Rockne and several others, declared a "structural fault" did not cause the accident.

The designer examined the wreckage and talked to many witnesses before making his statement. A wing had been broken off before the ship struck the earth.

Department of Commerce agents today still are investigating to establish officially, if possible, the cause of the accident.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 3. — Mayor James Walker, returning to New York where his administration is being investigated, took time out from his journey today to go to South Bend, Ind., to pay his respects to the family of Coach Knute Rockne.

Interviewed at his private car, which had been sidetracked here to allow him a few hours additional sleep, Mayor Walker was noncommittal.

"It has been understood all during my trip," he said, "that I shall not talk of New York affairs or of these charges until I get back to New York. I won't say a word about them, My chief concern now is to go to South Bend to pay my respects to the Rockne family."

The executive appeared dapper and jovial. He was attired in a blue spring ensemble. He was to leave here for South Bend on the New York Central shortly after noon. Returning to Chicago tonight, he was to proceed New York-ward tomorrow morning. He has just spent a vacation at Palm Springs, Calif.

Charges Against Capone Dismissed

Chicago Judge Discharges Capone, Fail To Get Policeman To Testify

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 3.—The vagrancy case against Scarface Al Capone was dismissed today by Judge Frank M. Padden in the felony court after prosecutors told the judge they were unable to find a single policeman in Chicago who could give evidence on which the state might base hope for a conviction.

The case had been continued until today after Sergt. Roy Van Heril testified he signed the complaint against Capone on "information and belief" and had no personal knowledge of the defendant. He said he signed at the direction of Judge John H. Lyle, recent mayoral aspirant, who launched a drive against "public enemies."

After the hearing, Capone and his detective escort left by an elevator used to convey prisoners to the court bullpens and made an exit out the rear of the building.
